GO REDBIRDS!

SERIES FEVER. Members of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Milwaukee Brewers stand along the baselines for the playing of the national anthem during the first World Series game. The inset photograph features Reverend Terry Shea of St. Margaret Mary Parish in Granite City. Reverend Shea, an avid baseball fan, will follow the Cardinals to Milwaukee as the Series continues Friday.

A true Cardinal fan

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

When the Rev. Terry Shea, a priest at St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church, speaks of the St. Louis Cardinals, he mentions "our" team and "us." Heaven forbid that Shea would use anything except a first-person pronoun. "The Cardinals are the only baseball team that Shea cares about. So great is his patronage of the team that Rev. Shea is in Milwaukee to watch the middle three games of the World Series, which he predicts will be won in St. Louis on Tuesday.

Father Shea unabashedly admitted to a questioner once that, yes, he is prejudiced—but not in the usual sense. Realizing the kind of answer expected of a priest when asked "are you prejudiced?" Shea immediately gave his affirmative answer, qualifying it with: "I think the St. Louis Cardinals are the greatest team in the history of baseball. They always have been and they always will be."

Now, long after admitting his prejudice for the Cards, which started when he was growing up in Decatur,

Father Shea says, "You can be prejudiced with the Cardinals and it's a virtue."

As he lights up a large cigar, Father Shea leans back in a recliner at his home behind the church, where he has been a priest since 1979. He looks out on the bright morning and recalls the other Cardinals' World Series he has seen.

There was 1946, '47, '64 and '68. Even in years without a league championship, a pennant race and a potential series title, Father Shea follows the Cardinals. It makes no difference if they are in the cellar of the division or on top of the standings.

The Cardinals also were in the World Series in '42, '43 and '44. Father Shea, however, was in school at the Kenrick Seminary in St. Louis. "We were not allowed to leave for such frivolous things as baseball," he says. The word, "frivolous," came out almost as a smirk.

He was not, he says, the only seminarian who was a bit disgusted with not being allowed to attend the games. The sport is not frivolous, but "a very serious enterprise, a great part of this country," he contends.

Despite missing the early '40s series' games, Father Shea has plenty of memories from watching the Cardinals. In fact, the memories are all he needs, he says. There is some memorabilia in the room—a small plastic hat, a T-shirt for a nephew who says he "needs" a Cards jersey—but for the most part the home is full of

Opposition for 3 local county board posts

Competition in the 1982 general election on Tuesday, Nov. 2, has developed for three of the eight Quad-City area positions on the Madison County Board.

Republicans caucused and chose Richard L. Thomas, 2418 Benton St., as their nominee in District 22. He faces incumbent Board Member Herbert "Junior" Milton of Granite City, the Democratic nominee, for a two-year term.

Nominated in the March 16 primary in District 25 were Donald C. Rea (D) of Ponton Beach and Robert L. Brave (R) of Nameoki Township; they are competing for a two-year board term. The incumbent, Richard Peck, lost to Rea in the Democratic primary.

Primary winners seeking a two-year position in District 16 are Morris W. Miles (D) of Mitchell, the incumbent board member, and Eric L. McDowell of South Roxana.

For a time, it appeared that five local County Board posts would be contested, but there were withdrawals by two Republicans, David House and Thomas Nash.

House had been slated to run for a four-year term in District 21, where the Democrats nominated Vasil Eftimoff of Granite City. Daniel Partney retired from the board, with Eftimoff being appointed to replace him.

Nash had been listed as running in District 22, where Roderick Bauder of Venice, an incumbent board member, is the Democratic nominee for a two-year post.

Cardinal win is cheered locally

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

The St. Louis Cardinals' 5-4 come-from-behind victory over the Milwaukee Brewers last night in the second game of the World Series had them jumping for joy at local bars, and area hotels and motels were filled to capacity.

Those at Busch Stadium also celebrated. Local establishments also are celebrating the Cardinals being in the World Series; business is booming.

Once again, a random survey of hotels and motels finds Collinsville establishments are virtually booked up for the series dates in St. Louis.

At the Holiday Inn, Interstate 55-70 and Route 157, there were about 34 rooms booked for last night and the occupancy rate was "about full," Tammy Woodward, desk clerk, said.

Although the majority of motel occupants for the playoffs were from Chicago, Decatur and other parts of Illinois, five rooms had been booked for people from Milwaukee, who un-

Lansdowne users balk at joining GC plant

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Reaction to the two alternatives facing about 33,500 sewer users now using the inadequate Lansdowne Sewer Plant came Tuesday night in the form of a sharp verbal jab to neighboring Granite City, the prime contendor for those customers.

Although the turnout at the public hearing in Madison Tuesday night was sparse, the sentiment was vocal and blunt. Engineer George Sallwasser of Horner and Shifrin summarized to the group its attitude about joining the Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant. "You just don't want to do it," he said.

About 20 persons attended the public participation meeting Tuesday night, most representing municipal and government divisions. The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission hosted the session.

Sallwasser said the residents' attitudes, coupled with another concern regarding future Granite City user rates, would be difficult to define to federal authorities, who are holding the purse strings on the Lansdowne project. The findings of the engineering study will be based on dollars, not on any personal considerations, he said. Illinois Environment Protection Agency (IEPA) representatives now are supplying 75 percent of the funding for Horner and Shifrin to update a 1976 study to determine the most cost-effective manner to further treat Lansdowne Plant discharge before it enters the Mississippi River. The original study found the least expensive route was to abandon Lansdowne's primary sewage treatment plant and to reroute the sewage discharge from that area to Granite City.

The Lansdowne plant, operated by the Metro-East Sanitary District, serves Madison, Venice, Brooklyn, Caseyville, Fairmont City, National City, Washington Park and a portion of East St. Louis.

Residents expressed the fear they would become the captive audience of

GC hiring sought by marchers

By GARY SCHNEIDER and GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Approximately 250 to 300 protestors marched along Parkway Drive in Town & Country East yesterday morning carrying signs objecting to what they contend is a lack of local hirings in construction of the 221-unit Town & Country Apartments by Schnabel Associates Inc., Kulpsville, Pa.

Marchers carried signs stating "Local jobs for local people" and "We demand Granite City jobs go to Granite City people. We need jobs." When asked how the idea of a march originated, protestors told a reporter, "It just kind of got going," and "I just heard about it and came." Asked if they would return each morning, one said he would continue until local people are hired on the job.

The "spontaneous" protest began with a meeting of people in Worthen Park, across from the construction site, about 6:30 a.m. Wednesday. Gradually, the number of protestors grew, reaching several hundred by 7:30 a.m. Some observers said as many as 700 were involved, but on-the-scene ob-

LOCAL JOBS in the construction of the Town & Country Apartments on Parkway Drive is the aim of this march by hundreds of unemployed men and women yesterday morning. The marchers contended that the construction company has been bringing in workers from outside of the area. The company says the protest is premature, since it plans to hire local workers soon.

Health Fair at SIUE next week

The 1982 Health Fair, filled with tips and tests for keeping everyone in good shape, is open to the public Oct. 19 and 20 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"Hooked on Health" is the theme of the two-day festival emphasizing wellness and staying healthy. It is a special event of the university's 25th anniversary year, sponsored by Health Service and related University departments.

The fair opens at 9 a.m. each day in the University Center with a circle of 27 permanent displays offering information and walk-in testing for diabetes, sickle cell anemia, blood pressure, hearing or dental problems, particularly dental screenings for 5 and 6-year-olds.

Health seminars and workshops throughout each day will offer help with body conditioning, sexual relationships or taking off 15 pounds. One workshop will train anyone for certification in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Another will answer questions about herpes.

Chiropractor Thomas Clay will explain health and healing with acupuncture, and the YMCA will check fitness and measure body fat.

In between, guests can see a style show of women's sports fashions, a line of aerobic dancers, a karate expert breaking a brick, or a sonogram picture used to find sports injuries. By "Asking the Pharmacist," visitors also may get advice on drugs and free samples of the remedies.

Other demonstrators will have tips on stress, cancer, kidneys, the heart, bicycle safety, drinking and driving, toxic shock syndrome, rehabilitation and a special display of aids for the handicapped and elderly. Celebration, a group of handicapped musicians, will entertain.

SIUE President Earl Lazerson will officially open Health Fair '82 at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Goshen Lounge in the University Center with Deb Buer of Granite City, SIUE student body president, and Leslie Ramey, chairman of the student medical benefit advisory board.

Admission to Health Fair '82 is free. It is aimed at introducing the various health resources available to students, staff and faculty at SIUE and the services available to the general public, according to Lucille McClelland, Health Service director.

Additional information is available from Bonnie Kitowski, Health Fair chairman, at 1-692-2842.

World Community Day observance Nov. 5

World Community Day, sponsored annually by the Quad-City Church Women United, will be held on Friday, Nov. 5, at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, 2101 Cleveland Blvd.

The celebration will convene at 12:30 and continue through 2:30 p.m. following the theme of Scarcity-Abundance.

This year's service was developed by participants in International Christian Causeways, sponsored by Church Women United since 1966. Causeways participants gathered at Bethlehem Center, near Denver, a retreat center operated by the Bethlehem Fathers, to write this service.

On the grounds of the center is a bridge. When the bridge was dedicated, it was described as a "sign of transition from passive to active participation in mission." It is hoped that his World Community Day Celebration will be a causeway, or a bridge, spanning the gap between Scarcity and Abundance, according to Mrs. Norma Corzilius, president of the sponsoring organization.

Mrs. Mildred Jungels is serving as chairman of the planning committee for the World Community Day. During the session a proposed change in the by-laws will be voted on by those attending.

At the September meeting of the Church Women United a slate of officers to serve through 1983 were elected unanimously.

They include, Mrs. Corzilius, president, a member of the United Presbyterian Church; Ola Jones of Bethel A.M.E. Church, vice-president; Lena Seitzer of Central Christian Church, secretary; Jane Kennerly a member of St. John United Church of Christ, treasurer; and Shirley Simpson of the Third Baptist Church a member of the nominating committee.

Installation ceremonies will be held at the annual assembly in January, it was announced.

Mrs. Louise Anderson, bloodmobile coordinator, reported the Community Blood Drive held in July netted 325 pints of blood, which is 50 pints less than the goal set for that month. It also is the lowest total for July since 1978, she added.

The next regularly scheduled bloodmobile will be Dec. 28, 29 and 30 with final locations and hours to be announced later, Mrs. Anderson added.

Read-a-thon to benefit MS fight

A total of 346 St. Louis area elementary and junior high schools has enrolled in the 1982 Multiple Sclerosis Read-a-thon. Between now and November 3, students in grades one through eight will be reading books and obtaining pledges to help fund MS research to find the cure of this crippling of young adults and to provide services for local MS clients.

Because the funds raised by these students will be used to investigate Multiple Sclerosis, the mysterious disability of young adults, the Read-a-thon participants are called "mystery sleuths."

"We encourage all children to become a mystery sleuth and read for the need of others," said Jennifer Hamon, program director.

The event is a primary source of funding for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Thomas acquires sole control of three local funeral homes

Robert H. "Bob" Thomas has acquired sole ownership of the Mercer, Thomas and Lahey-Sedlack funeral homes, it was announced jointly by Thomas and the Partners yesterday.

The joint release said, "The Partners have relinquished their interest in a holding which owns the properties."

"Bob" Thomas has assumed the presidency of that holding company, (a position) formerly held by Donald Partney Jr. The parties to the agreement (Bob Thomas, Donald Partney Jr., David Partney and Daniel Partney) announced that the decision to proceed in this matter was strictly a business decision, and emphasized their relationship was severed amicably.

The sale price was not announced.

Thomas' late father, Robert Thomas Sr., was associated with the Mercer family for many years in directing the operation of Mercer Mortuary, founded by the late Ed Mercer. Later, Mercer Mortuary was purchased from Mercer's son, Frank, who had managed it before and after his career as an Air Force colonel.

Also active at Mercer's for many years has been a brother of Robert Thomas Sr., Raymond Thomas. Ed Mercer and Robert Thomas Sr. are past coroners of Madison County.

After the death of Robert

Thomas Sr., an association by Robert Thomas Jr. with the Partney brothers began in connection with the operation of Mercer Mortuary. The joint holding company created Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, and operated it along with Mercer's, which is located at 1416 Niedringhaus Ave.

Later, the holding company leased the Sedlack Funeral Home business in Madison and in the summer of 1981 merged with Lahey Funeral Home to create Lahey-Sedlack Funeral Home, 501 Madison Ave.

The original Sedlack funeral home became Memorial Chapel, 615 Madison Ave., Madison, under different owners.

Local youth assists at camp in Ontario

Don McAllister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Dolores) McAllister, 3136 Willow Ave., has returned from a 10-week summer experience at Camp Owakone, Ontario, Canada, where he served as a high school staff camp counselor.

Don volunteered his time and energy for the nonprofit organization, Jesuit Program for Living and Learning (Boys' Hope), which was founded in 1977 in St. Louis, Mo., by Paul Sheridan, S.J., in cooperation with St. Louis University High School. It is a national program designed to meet the needs of those children who are handicapped by such circumstances as abandonment, abuse, neglect, poverty and the lack of educational opportunity.

The camp routine was rigorous with the daily schedule for the program boys broken down into three phases: formal education, organized work sessions, camping and athletic activities. It was determined that Camp Owakone had a dramatic and positive impact on the Boys' Hope boys, who grew in self-confidence and self-esteem.

Nameoki street lights may go dim if referendum fails—Garcia

By PATHAY LUTZ For the Press-Record

For the first time in 25 years, Nameoki Township residents are being asked to approve a rate increase of 12½ cents to maintain streetlights in the community.

Nameoki Township Board

CHARGE TWO WITH MISDEMEANOR THEFT Responding to a call the two men were taking gasoline from a vehicle in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue during the weekend, officers alleged finding Charles D. Spinks, 24, of 1706 Cleveland Blvd., and Donald W. Craig, 25, of 108 Abbott St., Venice, at 18th Street and Edison Avenue holding a gas can and ready to pour the contents into Spinks' auto.

A green hose was found under Spinks' vehicle. The gas in the can allegedly was taken from a pickup truck owned by Geneva Barnett, 1737 (rear) Edison Ave.

Both Spinks and Craig were arrested and charged with misdemeanor theft. They were released later the same day on payment of $52 cash bonds.

Member Joe Garcia informed the board on Tuesday that he is interested in placing an informational letter in the November voting packets to remind voters about the proposed increase. According to Garcia, the request from the Lighting District board members to increase the rate from 12½ cents to 25 cents on every one hundred dollars is justified. "If the rate increase on the November ballot does not pass the approval of the voters, the township will lose approximately one-half of its streetlights," Garcia stated.

He also indicated that the Nameoki board has already allotted $2,000 to the Lighting District to help it pay the bills until the voters decide on the rate increase.

"We don't have enough streetlights in this township as it is," Garcia said. "We cannot afford not to pass this rate increase, or eventually we may not have any streetlights at all," Garcia predicted.

Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mchelle came under fire when a resident claimed that she had seen members of the highway crew working at a union hall in Mitchell Lillian Singer indicated that she saw a township truck and two men working on the parking lot of the union hall (which is under the governance of the Chouteau Township) for nearly one and one-half hours on Tuesday.

Mchelle explained that his crew was authorized to "fill a couple of potholes in the parking lot," but indicated that no written agreement had been authorized. "We did this as a favor to Chouteau Township," Mchelle said. "They do some snow plowing for us and, in return, we do favors like this for them."

Board Supervisor Harry Briggs sided with Mchelle. "This was only a reciprocal job," Briggs said. "Instead of billing each other for these jobs, we just switch favors."

The Granite City High School South Band received a second place award in the Class A division in parade competition at the 14th annual Washington High School Marching Band Festival held at Rauch Field, Washington, Mo.

The local entourage was accompanied by members of the pom-pom and flag squads and auxiliary band group. Forty-eight marching bands with a total of 4,600 bandmen participated in both the street and field competition.

They were grouped into four classifications which were determined by each school's enrollment from grades nine to 12. The parade classification by school enrollments were: Class A 900-2,000; Class B 201-900; Class C 251-400 and Class D 250 and fewer.

Judges were Paul and Lee Rodebaugh, band directors at Shawnee Mission West High School, Overland Park,

The 2 faces of double bunking

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber doesn't like the double standard being used by the state in allowing double-bunking of prisoners at Menard and Pontiac Correctional Center while suing Madison County for the same thing.

"If push comes to shove, I'm going to shut down Menard," Weber pledges in his usual flamboyant style. Getting back to reality, it appears the state attorney general's office has the law on its side and Madison County is clearly in violation. It's the rules that have to be changed, not the game.

The Seventh U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago ruled this week that double-bunking at Pontiac is not cruel and unusual punishment. That federal ruling should settle it—but it doesn't.

"It's apples and oranges," the Department of Corrections responds. Prisons and jails are different. They operate under different rules. Jails are governed by the Illinois Department of Corrections and their rules have the weight of law.

Madison County can only fight, even if it appears to be a losing battle. As we have asked before, what can the county do with its excess prisoners? Tie them to a tree? Turn them loose? Pawn them off on St. Clair County and pay a daily rooming fee? Build a bigger jail?

The new jail was built according to Department of Corrections standards. It cost a bundle. The taxpayers are not going to pay for building yet a bigger jail and the county cannot afford to do it.

Double-bunking is certainly not cruel and unusual in the new jail. The prisoners enjoy air conditioning, nice day rooms much of the day, good food (at least we haven't heard any complaints).

The county has asked a judge to apply the Pontiac decision to Madison County's problem and throw out the attorney general's suit for double-bunking here. We agree that what's good for the goose is good for the gander. The state's double-bunking ban should be thrown out.

Insane rules for some crooks

We believe Missouri is on the right track in trying to limit insanity as a defense in criminal cases and we hope Illinois officials are watching.

A Missouri gubernatorial anti-crime commission has proposed new regulations which would prevent a person being found innocent of a crime by reason of insanity if he claims, "I knew what I was doing was wrong, but I couldn't help it."

Undoubtedly, the "innocent by reason of insanity" verdict handed John Hinckley Jr. for shooting President Ronald Reagan played a key role in convincing our Missouri neighbors that something should be done.

The proposal also suggests requiring periodic checks by state mental health officials of all persons freed after being found insane. That makes sense. We just hope there are enough employees in the mental health departments to do the job.

Missouri also is considering changes that would allow illegally obtained evidence to be admissible in criminal trials and to expand the power of the police to search for evidence believed present at a crime scene. Those should be looked at carefully. There is a delicate balance between justice and freedom.

Other proposals include making restitution to the victims a mandatory part of granting probation, prohibiting probation or parole for those convicted of drug trafficking and expanding the power of police to search for evidence.

All are worthy of study and we hope the Illinois lawmakers are watching Missouri closely. To release dangerous criminals because they are mentally unstable is, ah, insane.

Free press—your key to freedom

President Ronald Reagan is saluting the American newspaper industry during National Newspaper Week this week.

Newspaper Week is a time for all of us to re-evaluate the value of a free press to our society.

Recently, FBI agents and state Division of Criminal Investigation agents came into Granite City, arrested a Granite City man and made no public announcement of it.

Had it not been for a witness to the arrest tipping off the Press-Record, which then investigated, the public may never have known about the arrest. We are not saying that the FBI and DCI hid the information. They made it easily available, once we asked.

When law enforcement agencies which someone out of their homes and into jails in some countries, no one ever knows about it. The person just disappears. In America, a free press strives to see that this does not happen here.

That is but one of the many safeguards to freedom a free press provides. There is little, other than conscience, which would keep public officials honest if there was no fear the press would find out.

It may sound like blowing our own horn, but we would like to pass on a few quotes from President Reagan's letter.

"A free press is a cornerstone of our democracy... As we know, there are other nations where the free flow of news is thwarted by governments fearful of letting people know the truth. In those countries, where censorship is a means of containing thought and action, newspapers are controlled by the government, and it follows that all human freedoms are limited."

poetry. Still, they do conjure up pleasant associations if thought of as broiled and floating in melted butter and lemon slices on a pretty dinner table.

But ratfish and mudblowers? The government has a point.

The solution is obvious. Give them Italian names. People who balk at eating squid are delighted to dine on calamari, which is the same thing in Italian. If Italian names run short, try Esperanto or Volapuk, or Romanian, or just make up some nice sounding monikers.

Instead of ratfish, pigfish, monkfish — ambrosio, cellamoni, diviano. Instead of mudblower, spiny ghostshark, cancer crab — angelimaro, deliciani, lusciosa.

Whose mouth wouldn't water for broiled lusciosa in drawn butter?

Aw, mudfish for dinner again?

The Indianapolis (Ind.) Star recently came up with this interesting thought we thought we would pass along.

Would you eat ratfish, mudblowers, pigfish, monkfish, spiny ghostsharks or cancer crabs? Of course not.

So it is not hard to sympathize with the National Marine Fisheries Service in its campaign to change the names of fish that are nutritious and delicious but have such horrid-sounding names that no one wants to go near them, let alone eat them.

Stocks of more popular fish are dwindling in the seas. So save the government. Get lots of caviar to buy plentiful but ignored fish, goes the reasoning and — voila! — the problem will be solved.

To be honest, the names of the more popular fish — cod, halibut, flounder and herring — are not exactly

Members of the Press-Record editorial staff asked residents of the Quad-City area if the discovery of cyanide in Tylenol caused them to question the safety of other common products they routinely purchase. Their reactions follow:

Anna Chessar, Granite City

"I already had a lot of questions... Yes, it scares me, it scares me a whole lot. They could put it in anything. The idea of eating cyanide doesn't appeal to me."

Erma Fitzhugh, Granite City

"No. They (others) get scared, but I'm not scared like a lot of people. It's all in their minds. They get scared easier than I do. I'm still taking Tylenol every day."

Dan Merchoff, Granite City

"Well it definitely has. It makes you wonder what's going on in the world when something like that happens. You can't feel safe. I'll never buy Tylenol again... If I hear something bad about a product, I just won't buy it."

Claude Wickham, Granite City

"Yes, you don't know what you're gettin' ahold of. They shouldn't put them (Tylenol) back on the shelf yet. I've got some at home, but I haven't bought any new."

Library fee is cheaper than buying a book

To the Editor:

A reader, in a Forum letter printed in the Sep. 23 issue of the Press-Record, states that the tax substitution fee charged non-residents of the city for library service is too high. Perhaps the writer is not aware of the fact that this fee is based on the annual per capita support of the library by the city's property taxpayers, and of the fact that public libraries are almost solely reliant on property tax revenues for their annual operating income. The Granite City Public Library receives no income tax, no sales tax, no revenue sharing funds and, contrary to popular belief, no support from School District 9.

City residents are willing to share their city's excellent library resources (which have taken years of hard work to build) with their neighbors, and all the Granite City taxpayer asks in return is a modest fee to help support the current and ongoing expenses of the library. The annual fee of $10 buys the use of so much — books, records, art prints, programs for children, videocassettes, the bookmobile, the branch library, information service and, in addition, the commitment of the library staff to provide those materials and services.

One need only look at the average price of the books on the latest New York Times Book Review bestsellers list to know that $10 is a bargain: $14.98 for hardcover fiction; $15.13 for hardcover non-fiction and $3.70 for mass market paperbacks. Ten dollars is especially inexpensive when compared to the $20 the Alton Library charges and the substantially higher tax substitution fees charged in northern Illinois (Champaign $25; Arlington Heights, $15; Aurora, $40). The writer should consider the answers to the following questions: Is it too much to ask people who do not currently pay property tax to contribute to the library? Should Granite City financially support, in an equitable way, the current operating budget of the service they want? Or, to be more direct, why should the people who pay the bills provide this service for free to those who don't pay their full share?

I would like to ask the writer to tour the library so that she can see firsthand what an excellent resource the people of Granite City have to offer. I also would like to suggest that the Library Board would be happy to contract with any neighboring unit of local government for library service, thereby opening the Granite City Public Library to all the residents of the greater Granite City area.

A disconcerting and almost unbelievable truth about salaries of both elective and appointive officials in Granite City was disclosed yesterday when, in scanning over the entire list, it was glaringly apparent that the chief librarian at the Granite City Public Library is the highest paid official of the city. She receives a monthly compensation of $180. This salary rivals that of the city comptroller who is paid an identical sum for keeping the fiscal records and supervising the expenditures of the city, a position far more important and responsible than that of librarian.

The city comptroller is the only public official connected with Granite City who is paid as much as the librarian and there are a half dozen other important city officials whose salaries do not approach the fat sum paid to the librarian.

The United Fund's "Torchy the Torchbearer," who will remain at the top of a 30-foot pole on the city-owned lot at 24th street and Madison avenue until the goal is reached, had to convince his wife of the merits of the stunt before he climbed to his perch. "Torchy," who is 42-year-old Orville Dickey of Mitchell, told the Press-Record at Thursday night's United Fund kickoff dinner that he did not tell her until that evening. "She was angry at first, but everything is OK now," he said. From the kickoff banquet, Dickey rode with Drive Chairman Earle Layman in a city fire-truck, heading a torchlight parade to the YMCA to the city lot. As large searchlights bathed the penthouse in light, Dickey climbed the ladder at 8:30 p.m. The ladder was then removed. He has agreed to remain aloft until the $262,000 United Fund goal is reached.

A new agreement between Granite City and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers under which the city will lease 20 acres of land at the Granite City Army Installation without cost was authorized by the City Council in a special meeting Friday night. The city will avoid all lease payments, including those now being made, in exchange for treating sewage from the Army base. The 20 acres are needed as a site for construction of secondary treatment facilities which must be built under present federal and state deadlines of Dec. 31, 1973.

Fall harvest of vegetables

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

October is harvest time for some of the long season vegetables — and also for some, like turnips, that were planted in late summer.

Since most of these late vegetables are storable for a few weeks to several months, proper harvest is recommended.

Turnips may be harvested in October or as needed. Turnips and rutabagas are of best quality — mild and tender — when they are medium sized. Turnips should be 2 to 3 inches in diameter and rutabagas 3 to 5 inches.

Both are hardy to fall frosts. A heavy straw mulch will extend harvest through the early part of winter.

Turnips and rutabagas keep well in refrigeration, in an outdoor pit, or in an underground cellar. They may be dipped in warm wax to prevent loss of moisture.

Dig sweet potatoes just before the first frost in the fall. Use a spading fork, and be careful not to bruise or damage the roots.

Proper curing can be a problem. Ideally, the roots should be allowed to dry on the ground for 2 to 3 hours, placed in a warm room for curing — 85 degrees and 85 percent humidity, if possible — for 10 to 14 days, and then stored in a cool (55 degree F.) location.

Sweet potatoes should be handled as little as possible. In case of frost, dig immediately, and cut the vines from the roots. Use any frost-damaged potatoes as soon as possible after they have been stored.

Pumpkins can be harvested whenever they are a deep solid color — most varieties are orange — and the rind is hard.

Harvest in early October before heavy frosts. Cut pumpkins from the vines carefully, leaving 3 to 4 inches of stem attached. Pumpkins without stems usually do not keep well.

Avoid cuts and bruises when handling. Fruits that are not fully mature or have been injured or subjected to heavy frost will not keep. Store in a dry building where the temperature is between 50 and 55.

The suggestions for winter squash are similar to those for pumpkins. In storing these vegetables, keep them only one to two layers deep on the floor or shelf.

Job hunting workshops at SIUE

October is not too soon for June graduates to begin thinking about entering the job market, according to Mary Satterlee, program adviser at Placement Services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

To get them started, she will hold a series of four job hunting workshops on Wednesday mornings, beginning Oct. 20. Each session will concentrate on a particular tactic, from analyzing skills and developing a clear, attractive resume, to writing letters and interviewing, she said.

The free program, which offers individualized help and the chance to compare problems and ideas with others, is open to anyone, with or without a degree. The same principles apply whether a person is looking for a part-time job or a career position, she said.

The workshops will meet from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Kickapoo Room, the University Center through Nov. 10. For additional information, interested persons may contact Mary Satterlee at 1-692-2800.

Chapman, Dr. Heideke among speakers at ongoing seminar

A Granite City lawyer and a chiropractor will be among the experts at a seminar on forensic medicine to be held on a period of five months, one weekend each month.

This seminar offers a curriculum for chiropractors to learn the skills and techniques necessary in handling their patients who have had personal injuries.

Morris B. Chapman, a prominent local trial attorney and international legal lecturer, and Dr. Walter B. Heideke, a Granite City chiropractor and faculty member at Logan Chiropractic College, will be joined by medical, chiropractic and legal professionals in presenting the program.

The seminars are sponsored by the Department of Forensic Studies, Logan Chiropractic College, Chesterfield, Mo. The medical-legal issues of the personal injury patient will be evaluated so that the chiropractic physician may understand and appraise each case.

The training program and the principles and techniques of handling the personal injury patient is fully accredited by the Chiropractic Council in Education. The seminar begins the weekend of Nov. 6th at the St. Louis Airport Hilton.

Those interested may contact Logan College, Department of Forensic Studies, Chesterfield, Mo., 1-227-2100.

The bill provides for voluntary participation by candidates. In order to qualify for public matching funds, a candidate would indicate his participation within a specified period of time and also would accept limitations on the amounts and sources of his contributions.

A candidate would be held to a total maximum expenditure calculated through a formula, using a base of $250,000 plus 15 cents multiplied by his voting age population of the state.

The dollar for dollar matching funds would be limited to contributions of up to $100 from individuals.

The matching funds mechanism would not be triggered for funds received from a political party or political action committee.

A candidate could refuse public matching funds and his or her authorized committee could then raise and spend as much money as it feels necessary.

Dixon says, "Such a law would encourage participation by a broad spectrum of individual contributors, and place a cap on expenditures by candidates opting for public financing."

"Both of these developments would address weaknesses in the present system, which favors incumbents and encourages extravagant campaign spending."

STEAL MICROWAVE

A microwave oven, valued at $369, and silver dollars and coins initially were found to be missing following a burglary reported early this week at the home of David Watkins, 244 Terminal Ave. Entry was gained by knocking out windows in a rear door and the dwelling was completely ransacked. An inventory is being taken today.

Thompson to address Jaycees

Governor James R. Thompson will be the featured speaker at the Illinois Jaycees Miles of Pride inaugural banquet in Harvey.

Thompson will be joined by John Putnam of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development at the dinner and reception Oct. 19 at the Holiday Inn at Harvey.

The banquet will kick off the Jaycees Mile of Pride program co-sponsored by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA). The program, aimed at fostering community pride and volunteerism, will include an initial 20 seminars held throughout the state in the next 12 months.

"The Miles of Pride program grew out of a challenge Governor Thompson made to the Illinois Jaycees earlier this year to roll up their sleeves to create viable programs at the community level," said DCCA Director Peter B. Fox.

Symphony plans concerts for tots

One of Mozart's most beloved operas, "The Magic Flute," will be the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra's introduction to area children ages 4 to 8 years in six upcoming "Kinder Konzerts."

The concerts will be at 9:30 and 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 19, 20 and 21, in Powell Symphony Hall.

The theme for these concerts is "The Magic of Music" and, in addition to the Overture from "The Magic Flute," children will hear Rossini's well-known "William Tell" Overture and excerpts from Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

Court test on sick leave likely

As city and union representatives prepare to go to court next month on the question of alcoholism and the city's sick leave policy, Granite City officials apparently cannot agree among themselves what type of policy will best serve both taxpayers and employees.

A combination of alleged past overuse of sick time by some employees, rough financial times for the city and the annual ritual of negotiations all seem to be contributing to the external and internal division.

Last week, Aldermen defeated, on a 7 to 6 vote, a motion to give department heads the discretionary authority to ask employees using sick leave to be checked by a doctor representing the city. Before the vote was taken, Alderman Paul Fisk read a similar passage from the city's current municipal code book.

Both Fisk and Alderman Sharon Perjak, who proposed the motion, are members of the negotiations committee, which has been working on writing a revised sick leave policy. After last week's council meeting, Fisk told Mrs. Perjak, "At least we tried."

GCS executives take 10% pay cut

Approximately 6,200 salaried employees of National Steel Corp., including nearly 800 in the Granite City Steel Division, have been ordered to accept 10 percent wage cuts temporarily to help the company reduce costs during the continued recession.

Although the company would not release specific figures, it is believed the cut would reduce salaries paid in the Granite City division by approximately $2.5 million, if it remained in effect for a year.

National Steel has pledged to restore salaries to their higher level as soon as business conditions permit.

The only salaried employees excluded from the cut were a small number who accepted cuts of up to 35 percent earlier this year, and employees of National's financial services subsidiary, United Financial Corp. of California.

Salaried employees earlier accepted a wage freeze, discontinuation of living (COLA) adjustments, temporary discontinuation of company contributions to the stock investment plan and vacation bonuses and extended vacations.

Prosecute woman on animal cruelty charge

The local Association for the Protection of Animals (APA) has taken steps to prosecute a Granite City woman on animal cruelty charges.

Such prosecutions are rare, but the organization decided to take legal action against Linda Lucas, 2906 E. 24th St., who is charged with cruelty to a 4-month old part-Begle puppy, because she refused to speak with APA investigators and threatened them with bodily harm, according to an APA investigator.

Miss Lucas allegedly "failed to provide a sufficient quantity of good quality, wholesome food and water, adequate shelter and protection from the weather, veterinary care to prevent suffering and humane care and treatment," court documents said.

Mike Collier, a state's attorney investigator, said that such cases have been prosecuted before, but the instances have been rare because people are not certain where to take animal cruelty complaints.

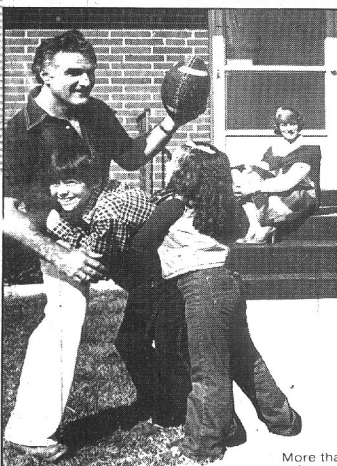

He added that as long as a reputable organization brings the complaints to the state's attorney's office, the case will be considered.

The puppy was "obviously starving and emaciated," he said. Miss Lucas admitted to owning the dog and then denied it was hers when she was questioned about its condition, he said.

The charges were filed Tuesday and a Nov. 2 court date has been set on the petty offense. There is no minimum or maximum fine for animal cruelty. The fine depends on how many animals are involved and the extent of the cruelty, Collier said.

The puppy is now in the APA's custody.

Concert at Central Christian

"Music Sounds of Yesterday," a concert of antique folk instruments, will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road. The public is invited to attend.

Performing on the unusual instruments will be Naoma M. Williams.

Over a period of years, Mrs. Williams has assembled from antique shops, garrets and yard and farm sales varied musical instruments, most dating from the late 1800s and early 1900s.

Now totaling 75 in playable condition, they were sold mainly in the Midwest through mail order houses or door-to-door country peddlers.

Mrs. Williams says that, to more fully enjoy the instruments, she began studying American folk music.

The gathered folk songs, melodies and ballads from a variety of people.

Many of the musical arrangements came from her listening audience.

No admission will be charged for the concert; an offering will be taken to cover expenses.

A reception is planned following the musical presentation.

Woman abducted and beaten

A 20-year-old Granite City woman was abducted from her home, taken to the levee and beaten, state Division of Criminal Investigation agents have announced.

Rescue man after fall

A Granite City Steel worker rescued this morning about 9:30 after falling 30 feet and clinging to a ladder until help arrived. William G. Mertz, 2533 S. Clair Ave., fell after a steel grating gave way when he was working at the Rawney Well shaft, near 16th Street and Madison Ave.

According to Carl Baczenas, information officer, the worker was able to grab a ladder as he fell and managed to hold on until rescue crews arrived. A crane was used to remove the worker.

Granite City firefighters and emergency medical technicians and Granite City Steel workers aided in the effort, according to Baczenas, who praised the operation.

Mertz apparently escaped with minor injuries and had not been admitted to the hospital at press time.

World Series

capacity crowds. Last week's two rained out games helped business at Geo's, 3304 Nameoki Road (formerly Central Lounge).

After the games were rained out, the people decided to stay anyway, Bob Crawford, manager, said. "I'm glad they got rained out."

Even without bad weather, Geo's was crowded last night with screaming fans, intent on cheering the Cardinals to victory. Ken Oberkell, who is from Maryville, was one of the favorite Cardinals among spectators, several of whom know "Obie" and reminisced each time he came to bat.

Geo's had nearly a full house every night of the playoffs and expects as much for the remainder of the World Series. Crawford said the lounge can "easily" hold 75 to 80 people and there are specials on drinks and food during the games.

Sunday night, Crawford announced that he would buy the house a drink for each home run hit by a Cardinal. He speculated Tuesday that with his generous offer, the Cardinals probably would break the record for home runs in a World Series, but, as of last night, Crawford still was safe because former Cardinal home runs do not count.

GC hiring

He carried a sign referring to a comment by President Reagan about "one of the great men in South America." The sign read, "I am the guy from South America and I need a job."

Bloodworth compared the labor strife here with Poland, and stated, "This is only the beginning. There is solidarity in both countries."

The purpose of the picketing was not formally disclosed to the contractors, however, except through the messages carried on the protesters' signs, according to Robert Ervine, project director for Schnabel, the general contractors for Michaels Development Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

A professional photographer was hired by the company to take photos of the marchers and their signs yesterday morning, the Press-Record learned.

Some workers at the Granite City site are from Missouri, Ohio and Pennsylvania and are employees of contractors with which Schnabel has worked in the past. Ervine said the approximately 32 workers now employed at the Parkway Drive site, he estimates about 45 to 50 percent are from Illinois.

When the workforce is at full

Lansdowne users

an engineering firm, said, "I think a lot of the fear of going into Granite City is ill-founded." He said added input to the plant should mean Granite City's rates would be drastic drop. The merger of Lansdowne users with the Granite City plant would increase the city's average daily intake of 8.5 million gallons by another 5.5 million.

Sallwasser expects the results of the updated Lansdowne study to be completed by late January or February. The study was due to be completed about December, but an additional study by Granite City of the kind of strength, about 75 to 80 employees, he expects between 70 to 80 percent of those to be from the state, although not necessarily from the Granite City area.

About 200 local construction workers, from this area, already have submitted applications to Ervine's firm, he said. The 38 to 48 jobs expected to open up within the next month will be filled mainly from that pool of local applicants.

Assessing the early morning situation at the Parkway Drive site, he noted no intention of displacing the out-of-town workers currently on the job. Aware of the high unemployment in the area, he said that, regardless of hiring procedures, the project could not employ all those who have applied. He has found no apparent connection between the pickets and local union.

The project operates under an open shop policy, hiring both union members and independent workers, he noted.

Assessing the early morning situation Wednesday, Ervine said, "They want Granite City people to do Granite City jobs."

He hoped that in time any current problems between the pickets and the contractors will be resolved with employment of area workers. "I fully intend to hire people from the area," he said.

Granite City dictates, especially since they already are subject to the dictates of the IEPA on which system the residents will eventually have to accept.

Although Sallwasser emphasized to the group the role informed politicians might play in the final decision-making, he apparently did not convince residents that they could give an effective input in the matter. "What can we do to get to Lansdowne, instead of Granite City?" asked one of four vocal residents.

But Frank Illingworth, representing sewage rates it could expect with inclusion of Lansdowne is not expected to be completed until mid-November, according to Terrence McMillan, Granite City Wastewater Plant superintendent.

McMillan said that the addition of Lansdowne users to Granite City could make the local plant eligible for additional grants to make necessary repairs.

Yet to begin is another study to determine the proper plant staffing, expected operations and maintenance expenses.

Cardinal fan

religious paintings, books and crucifixes.

Memories are enough for Rev. Shea and, therefore, he has accumulated only a scant amount of souvenirs. But the memories he has are as precise as if the games were played yesterday.

Bob Gibson's record 17 strike outs in the first game of the '68 series against the Detroit Tigers is "something I can't forget," he says. Mike Shannon and Ken Boyer had homers that Father Shea remembers well. Gibson's fielding to catch Joe Pepitone at first base, a double play by Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier, Maxvill's play at second base when Javier was injured, Joe Garagiola's hitting and catching; Father Shea remembers them all.

But the 17 strike-out game is still his biggest memory. After that, Father Shea says, are the three outfield catches made by Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter and Terry Moore.

The team that played in the '40s — with men like Musial, Slaughter and Moore — was the best in Father Shea's opinion. This edition of the Cards does, however, remind Shea of the '40s team. Even though the Cardinals have done well this season, many fans were brought back from the west by the pennant win after the 10-0, 17-hit rout by Milwaukee Tuesday night.

Not Father Shea.

Many fans also questioned manager Whitey Herzog's decision to let pitcher

Bob Forsch stay in the game five and two-thirds of an inning.

Not Father Shea.

"It was quite a good ballgame. I've never seen a terrible game. They're all good, but some are better than others," he says.

"It never occurred to me that he should take him (Forsch) out. I have a great deal of faith in Mr. Forsch. I wouldn't have taken him out," he says.

Rev. Shea does not become upset with pitchers who have consistently helped the team out. Everyone is entitled to an off game and, besides, the Cardinals are going to win the World Series, probably in six games, predicts the priest.

There also is talk — and has been for quite some time — that Herzog will trade George Hendrick next year. Father Shea looks surprised at the suggestion, as if he has never heard the rumor.

"I don't see any reason for it. I would particularly abhor and detest anything that would hurt our infield. We have the best defensive infield in baseball," he says. Rev. Shea obviously does not believe Hendrick should be traded in a transaction that would involve an infield change. But there is more to his opinion.

"I certainly don't see any reason why I should trade a fellow who has been in over 100 runs." It upsets Father Shea when he hears people say that Hendrick is not good for the team — that "Silent George" (so dubbed because he refuses to speak to the media) is not a team man.

"He's a good person on the baseball team. He's not jealous of the other players. He's not mean. He's just a fine person," the priest says.

All of the Cardinals are fine people in Rev. Shea's opinion and he can back up that statement. While on the West Coast to see games in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego, Rev. Shea asked hotel personnel what they thought of the Cardinals and he got all positive responses.

Of course, he was not surprised by the responses. For a man who believes that "if the Cardinals don't win the National League pennant every year, they should call off the World Series," there could be nothing more than a positive opinion of the hometown team.

Father Shea also believes that sports are a necessity of life and growing up. He encourages every child who can to play sports — without emphasis on winning, without uniforms, without coaches. Children should just go out and play, every day, all day, he believes.

"One thing sports do give people unity. We don't all work in the same place or go to the same school," he says, but in sports, everybody can be at the same level.

To the Rev. Shea, that place is wherever the Cardinals happen to be.

Swiatek fined, forfeits 2 cars, put on probation

Robert J. Swiatek, 46, of 33 Briarcliff Lane will spend the next year on unsupervised probation (conditional discharge) and has turned over to the state a 1981 Oldsmobile auto and a 1981 Chevrolet van. The vehicles are valued at a total of $25,000 and were affected by a state law that allows seizure of cars used in crimes.

He was fined a total of $15,000 by Chief Criminal Court Judge Philip J. Rarik of Madison County for two state offenses — $7,500 for felony criminal damage to property (over $300 value) and $7,500 for conspiracy to commit evadingprosecution.

Part of the agreement for guilty pleas was that no federal charges are to be pursued. Assistant State's Attorney Keith Jennings said, U.S. Attorney Frederick Hess has indicated he will seek dismissal of a charge of illegal interception of communications.

It was alleged that Swiatek, a developer, nursing home operator and bank director, tried to wiretap the home telephone of a friend, Serge A. Donikian, a Granite City restaurant operator and investor, to obtain information on the stock market.

Donikian had been selling Swiatek investment tips but planned to increase the fee, State's Attorney Don W. Weber said. John Gilchrist was the defense attorney.

Officials said Swiatek posed as a policeman to buy auto "bugging" equipment from a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., company that supplies such items only to authorized agencies.

The firm became suspicious while checking his credentials and notified authorities, who arranged for undercover agents of the FBI and state Division of Criminal Investigation to offer their assistance to him. He was arrested Sept. 30 after meeting the agents at Donikian's home.

Shots fired, two arrested

Madison officers were called to the vicinity of the El Capalano Lounge, West Second and Jackson streets, Madison, during the weekend, following a report of shots being fired, then went to the home of Johnnie Darnell Robinson, 20, at 54 Lee Wright Homestead, 10, of 1907 Calhoun St., Venice, called to him and allegedly fired a shot at him. Robinson reported firing a weapon three times in the air and then running home, he said.

Caldwell also was arrested and charged with unlawful use of a weapon and not having a Firearm Owner's Identification Card. He was released on notice to appear in court.

In a court appearance Tuesday in Granite City, Robinson was sentenced to serve seven days in jail on the charge of not having a Firearm Owner's Identification Card and was charged with already having served three days of the term. He also pleaded guilty to discharging a firearm in the city limits.

JENNIFER BERTACCHI

Academic honors

Jennifer Lynn Bertacchi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bertacchi of Florissant, Mo., formerly of Granite City, is a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship program, it was announced this week.

Her father is an English teacher at Granite City High School North and she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Helen Bertacchi of Madison and Mrs. Ann Kastelle of Granite City.

Miss Bertacchi, a senior at Rosary High School in Spanish Lake, Mo., won the Danforth Leadership Award as an "outstanding" junior student last spring.

To achieve national semi-final status, a student is required to be in the top one-half of the top one per cent of over one million students who take the annual PSAT test.

Miss Bertacchi is a member of the Rosary High School Student Council, yearbook staff and National Honor Society. She also teaches preschoolers in classes at Transfiguration Parish and is a member of the Catholic Youth Council board.

THANKS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Bob Barton, Republican candidate for Madison County treasurer, right, is presented a certificate of appreciation from the state of Illinois by Governor James Thompson at a meeting in Madison County. Barton recently resigned his seat on the Illinois Real Estate Examining Committee of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education after five years of service.

Hartigan seeks job priority for widows, children of slain police

Neil Hartigan, Democratic candidate for Illinois attorney general, feels that it should be public policy in Illinois for widows and working-age children of law enforcement officers slain in the line of duty to be given priority of employment in state jobs.

Hartigan met recently with officials of the "Officers Doyle, O'Brien & Fahey Memorial" who are raising scholarship money for the children of the three deceased officers. The plight of families of slain officers is an on-going concern for Hartigan, who, as Illinois lieutenant governor, introduced in the General Assembly legislation granting scholarships to children of murdered prison guards and correction personnel.

Hartigan asked the officials of the memorial fund for their support for legislation he is preparing to have introduced in this fall's session of the Legislature. It will make priority of employment for families of

Edgar-Cosentino race lively

SPRINGFIELD — As usual the Nov. 2 general election features the classic brawl for the secretary of state's post.

This year, Secretary of State Jim Edgar, a Republican, is trying to hold off state Treasurer Jerry Cosentino, the Democrat. Edgar lists his hometown as Charleston and Cosentino is from Palos Heights.

Two other parties have entered candidates for the job, but it is expected they will not make a major difference in the outcome. The Libertarian Party is running Roger Hosbein of Winnetka and the Taxpayers Party is running Kenneth J. Prazak of Brookfield.

The post pays $50,500 per year.

The state constitution says the secretary of state shall maintain the official records of the acts of the General Assembly and shall maintain the official records of the executive branch as provided by law. This allows the incumbent secretary of state's name to appear in a lot of places, such as driver's licenses.

He also is to keep the Great Seal of the state of Illinois and perform other duties that may be prescribed by law. Down through the years the General Assembly has added a host of additional duties, such as being the state librarian. Again this is another area that can work to the advantage of the officeholder.

Edgar was an aide to Gov. James R. Thompson when Thompson appointed him to fill the unexpired term of then-Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon in 1980. Dixon, a Belleville Democrat, was elected to the U.S. Senate. He had two years left in the term, so Thompson, a Republican, appointed another Republican to the secretary of state post.

Edgar, 38, immediately began projecting the image of a youthful veteran politician. Prior to joining the Thompson administration, Edgar was serving in the House from the Charleston area. Before his election to the House, Edgar was a legislative intern and served on the staff of the president pro tempore of the Illinois Senate. He also served as an assistant to former House Speaker W. Robert Blair of Crest.

Edgar and his wife, Brenda, have two children. Cosentino and his wife, Charlotte, have five children.

Cosentino, 51, served for four years as a commissioner of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, prior to being elected state treasurer in 1979.

Cosentino has maintained that during his tenure the state treasurer's office supported ambulance safety laws as well as a law to allow the manufacture of motor vehicle license plates in Illinois prisons. Cosentino has chided Edgar for reports saying Edgar is a heavy user of the state's aircraft. Cosentino, who maintains he has not used state planes while serving as treasurer, wasted little time in going after Edgar.

Edgar, meanwhile, countered by saying as secretary of state he has had to attend meetings dealing with state business all over Illinois. This requires fast transportation, thus the use of state airplanes.

In the past, the secretary of state's office has sold various listings, such as drivers, to a host of companies. This in turn has brought in some revenue.

Cosentino says he would stop such a practice and Edgar has appointed a task force to study the matter. Edgar also has started a pilot program to sell licence plate decals at drivers' examination stations in an effort to get them out faster to the driving public.

Cosentino also has charged Edgar has been using a quota system on the falling of driver's license applicants. This has been denied by Edgar as well as his staff.

In the last session of the General Assembly both Edgar and Cosentino worked on separate legislation calling for mandatory automobile insurance. Both bills were turned down.

Cosentino has enlisted Patrick Quinn, a leader in the Coalition for Political Honesty, to lead a petition drive asking the Legislature to enact such a law. Both have said this would reinitiate the legislation in the next General Assembly.

The hurling of verbal salvos between Edgar, who is an Eastern Illinois University graduate, and Cosentino, a longtime self-made businessman, is expected to continue right up to the election.

Antique display at historical meeting

The Old Six Mile Historical Society held its 10th annual meeting at Tri-Mor Bowl with a large crowd in attendance.

Don Gargano conducted the business meeting and announced the secretary, Darlene Kahn, will be moving. He appointed Linda Koenig to replace her.

Georgia Engelke, program chairman, announced the next meeting will be held on Monday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Tri-Mor Bowl. Homer Huber will speak on Nameki.

Loraine Bischoff, chairman of the Antique Show and Sale, reported that the 25 contracts for booths have been signed and sent back to the society.

Antique dealers will arrive on Friday, Oct. 22, to set up their booths and the sale will begin at 12 noon on Saturday, Oct. 23, and remain open until 9:30 that night.

The show will open again at noon on Sunday and close at 6 p.m. Antique dealers will be coming from Indiana, northern Illinois, Missouri and Gallatinburg, Tenn. She also announced that Velma Farrance and Evelyn Ringering, co-chairmen of the food at the Antique Show, will have a variety of home made foods for sale.

The Old Six Mile Society will sponsor a book booth at the sale which will also feature records and sheet music.

Highlight of the meeting was not only the history of the Romann family but the speaker, Mrs. Alma Romann Beckman, also had a collection of about 70 antiques which had been handed down from one generation to the other. She said that none of the antiques were less than 75 years old.

Mrs. Beckman told the members that her grandfather, John, was born in Switzerland. In 1854, when he was 21 and his wife, Saline, was 18, they left their European home and immigrated to the United States with their 6-month old son, Walter.

She displayed her prize antique, a basket with a lid and handle, which was used to carry the baby's clothes as they traveled by ship to this country. She also displayed the baptismal certificate for this child dated 1854. This Swiss couple had seven more children born in the United States, Louis Romann, Mrs. Beckman's father, was the youngest.

Mrs. Beckman's mother was Mary Heinbokel. She lived in Sand Prairie with her parents and 12 brothers and sisters. In 1882 this family moved to the Tri-Mor area and moved to Jackson County, along the Mississippi River at Waukegan, Ill.

In 1888, the Romann family moved from the Six Mile area to Jackson County. The Heinbokels were their neighbors.

Mrs. Beckman said, "To make a long story short, the first thing you know three Heinbokel sisters married three Romann brothers." Now in those days a wedding was the occasion for a lot of fun. Mrs. Beckman showed the two bed caps that were given to her parents on their wedding night.

By 1914 the floods of the Mississippi had played havoc with the Romann farm. Only seven acres of the farm were left, the rest of the farm was washed away into the Mississippi. So it was in 1914, that the Louis Beckman family decided to return to Granite City.

After obtaining passage on the Cape Girardeau, a river boat, the Romanns took aboard all their possessions, even their livestock. After arriving in Venice, Ill., they took their precious cargo (including some wedding gifts Mrs. Beckman had on display) and driving their livestock they came to the Wedg estate (later owned by John Harbig located on St. Clair Ave.).

In 1927 Mrs. Beckman married August Beckman, a farmer, and they started their married life on this farm.

Later they moved to the Collinsville area and then again on a farm near Horseshoe Lake. Louis Romann served as Township Supervisor many years after 1927.

Among Mrs. Beckman's antiques was a mirror, the only mirror, used in her mother's home when she was a child. Although the mirror is almost 100 years old, it is in very good condition.

Other interesting antiques were: A napkin ring, a souvenir, from the Vellied Prophet Ball dated Oct. 2, 1900; a mini-ball used during the Civil War and found in Granite City when they were preparing to pave Edison Ave. The mourning blouse her mother wore for one year after her mother's death, a domino game made of bone, brought over from Switzerland.

The christening dress she wore in 1902 as well as other dresses she wore as a child. (Frances Judd asked how they were able to keep these clothes so white in those days. The answer was, "With a wash board and home-made soap. Even everyday dresses were washed, starched and ironed with an iron heated on a stove."

She exhibited many simple tools used by the farmer at the turn of the century. Since corn was one of the dominant crops in those days and it had to be picked, shucked and shelled by hand, she showed a shucking peg and a sheller that would shell one ear of corn at a time.

At the close of her program Eldon Curtright asked about a shivaree. Mrs. Beckman told how everyone would serenade a couple on their wedding night with horns, bells and anything that would make a noise. Then everyone would come into the house for refreshments provided by the couple.

Everyone commended Mrs. Beckman on her very humorous and interesting presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Delp provided refreshments at the end of the meeting. The public is invited to the monthly meetings held on the first Monday of each month, the president explained.

Mayor proclaims Lupus observation

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler has proclaimed Oct. 17-23 as National Lupus Week and urges all Illinoisans to assist the Lupus Erythematosus Society of Illinois' research and public education programs.

Lupus Erythematosus is a chronic, inflammatory disease involving the connective tissues of the body and may affect almost any part or organ of the body in varying degrees of severity. More than one-half million people in the United States suffer from Lupus with 70 percent of them women.

Neither the cause nor a specific treatment of the crippling and painful disease are known. Hope for its prevention and control of its resultant disabilities and fatal complications rests with intensive and massive research. Studies are currently being conducted in clinics, hospitals and medical schools, according to the announcement.

Seminar on eye disease at SEMC well received

By JOYCE MITCHELL
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

A free community seminar on eye diseases sponsored by the St. Elizabeth Medical Center (SEMC) late last month, was a huge success, according to Sister Mary Thomas, president of SEMC.

Dr. Michael Rumelt, ophthalmologist on staff at SEMC, Barnes Hospital and clinical instructor in ophthalmology at Washington University, discussed the recent advancements in the diagnosis and treatment of cataracts and glaucoma.

According to Dr. Rumelt, cataracts affect the lens of the eye, causing it to become more and more cloudy until vision is completely obstructed.

Glaucoma is a disease that creates a blockage in the circulation of eye fluid, causing the fluid in the eye to build up. This build-up increases the pressure in the eye, thus damaging the optic nerve and often causing blindness.

After Dr. Rumelt's presentation, a question-and-answer session was conducted and refreshments served. Those interested in learning more about eye diseases should watch the Press-Record for announcements of upcoming seminars, a spokesman said.

Clarify guidelines for free vaccines

The Illinois Department of Public Health will continue to provide free vaccine to local health departments and other public entities conducting immunization clinics.

These immunizations are available free or at a minimal charge to all children, regardless of their family income.

In clarification of a September 27 news release, the Department of Public Health now will pay for immunizations for children of public aid recipients who are patients of private physicians. The Department of Public Health provides vaccines at public clinics, but no longer provides them through private physicians.

The distribution of vaccines directly to private physicians by the Department of Public Health was discontinued earlier this year due to fiscal constraints. Public Aid's coverage for public aid patients began Sept. 1 as a result of Public Health's policy change.

Immunizations provided in the service include shots to prevent diphtheria, polio, tetanus, measles, mumps, whooping cough and rubella.

National Business Women's Week

Several special activities are planned locally in observance of National Business Women's Week, scheduled Sunday, Oct. 17 through Oct. 24.

The traditional celebration will be launched here with the 60th anniversary dinner of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, Sharon Yount, BPW club president, announced.

Helene Bischoff, dinner chairman, said the event will take place at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 16, at the Collinsville Holiday Inn.

Veteran broadcaster Grant Horton of Radio Station WTHH will be the guest speaker.

To mark the occasion, the mayors of the local communities this week signed a proclamation urging civic and fraternal organizations, educational and business groups and individuals to join in saluting working women, LaVelle Stephens, co-chairman of National Business Women's Week, said today.

The formal document states in part: "Whereas working women constitute 44 million of the nation's working force, and are constantly striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs, and

"Whereas major goals of business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems, to help them be of greater service to their community and to further friendship with women throughout the world, and

"Whereas the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to our economic, civic and cultural purposes, and

In addition to the guest speaker, Saturday's gala dinner will feature entertainment by the Southern Express Swing Choice from Granite City High School South, under the direction of Mary Ann Bright.

A special guest will be Annette Smith, president of the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Several state and District 14 officers also are scheduled to attend, Mrs. Bischoff said.

Feed grain and wheat plans here

Madison County farmers can now sign up for 1983 feed grain and wheat acreage reduction programs, Delbert reports. He is chairman of the Madison County Committee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The program requires that farmers reduce their wheat and feed grain planted acreage by 20 percent of the established base to qualify.

Acreage reduction requirements are 10 percent, with a 10 percent paid land diversion for feed grain, and 15 percent with a five percent paid land diversion for wheat.

All farmers with an established base who plant feed grain and/or wheat are eligible to participate in the voluntary programs. Those who sign up will be eligible for land diversion payments, deficiency payments, and price support loans.

"Farmers may request 50 percent of the 1983 deficiency payments and 50 percent of the projected deficiency payments when they sign up," Esenpries said.

Land diversion payments have been established at $1.50 per bushel for corn and sorghum, $1 for barley, 75 percent for oats, and $2.70 for wheat. The land diversion payment is based on half of the per-bushel payment rate times the acres diverted.

Esenpries said that if a farmer accepts an advance payment and later does not comply with the acreage reduction, he or she will be required to refund the amount of the advance payment plus interest.

Interest charged will be the rate in effect for commodity loans on the date of the advance payment, plus five percentage points.

The projected per-bushel deficiency payment rates are: corn, $2.15; sorghum, 20-cents; barley, 15-cents; and wheat, 65-cents.

The ASCS official said advance deficiency payments will be half these rates. Advance payments are authorized for oats.

To be eligible, farmers must agree to limit their feed grain and wheat acreage to no more than 90 percent of the farm's feed grain and wheat base, and also to devote an acreage equal to both the feed grain and land diversion to conservation uses.

Program participants will receive target price protection of $2.86 a bushel for corn, $2.72 for sorghum, $2.60 for barley, $1.60 for oats, and $4.30 bushel for wheat. Loan rates per bushel are: corn, $2.65; sorghum, $2.32; barley, $2.16; oats, $1.38; rye, $2.25; and wheat, $2.86.

The 1983 wheat crop will be eligible for the farmer-owned reserve program. Decisions on use of the reserve for 1983 feed grain are being delayed until the domestic and world supply and demand situation is studied.

Participation in the 1983 programs is voluntary, but only those farmers who take part will be eligible for program benefits. Signups will be conducted through March 31.

Appeals of assessments on Nov. 22

Appeals on the assessed valuation of property in Madison County will be heard by the Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board at 101 Purcell St., Edwardsville, Nov. 22, according to Albert A. Seppi, board chairman.

The appeals are a result of decisions by the Madison County Board of Review and the hearings are open to the public.

The appellants, location of property, appellant's claim, and basis of the hearings on Nov. 22 included:

George and Billie McGrath, Rural Route One, Box 1223, Granite City, residential property located at 10 Westgate and 26 Pontaineau, Granite City, two parcels with no amounts given, n.m.
Brockus Machine Co., Fannie Brockus, Rural Route Three, 356, Edwardsville, residential property located in Chouteau Township, no amount given, 3 p.m.

Venice parade Saturday to spur decorating fund

All Venice residents, together with business firms and organizations, are invited to take part in a communitywide parade Saturday to promote additional contributions to the Venice Christmas Decorating Fund.

Parade participants will assemble at 10 a.m. Saturday on Market Street at Line Alley, Venice, with the marchers proceeding to the Venice Recreation Center on Broadway, according to Miss Brenda Ervin, parade chairman.

Gertrude Young secured permission for the parade from the Venice City Council to publicize the need for a cooperative effort to get additional funds to decorate the community at Christmastime.

Citizens are being encouraged to join in the festive event, either by walking or with decorated floats, bicycles, cars and trucks.

The Venice police, volunteer fire and street departments, as well as area veterans' groups, also have been invited to provide vehicles for the parade.

"We want to let everyone know about our decorating fund...that we are proud of our city and that we are going to have Christmas decorations like every other city around," Mrs. Young earlier stated to city council members.

"We're going to go up and down the streets and I'm going to make sure everyone knows about the fund," she stressed.

Mrs. Young was responsible for establishing the council-sanctioned Venice Christmas Decorating Fund some months ago when she approached the city fathers with the idea of purchasing holiday decorations for the community and found no money was available for such a project.

The fund currently stands at $1,500 and more than $4,000 is needed to pay for wiring and lights. Donations of any amount between the hours of 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. on Halloween night, Oct. 31, using either of the 21st Street entrances.

Any dangerous metal objects will show up on the X-rays. However, X-rays cannot detect non-metallic substances, such as ground glass or chemicals, so parents will be advised to inspect the candy carefully before allowing youngsters to eat any of it.

Parents will be asked to remove any coins from the trick or treat bags, since coins show up on X-rays. Candy should be in a small or medium-sized bag or container. Very large bags will be too big to show up completely on the X-ray, it was noted.

Each X-ray will take about one minute, after which children will be given their candy's X-rays to keep.

Free parking will be available in the 21st Street parking garage.

ALLEGES BATTERY IN PONTON BEACH
Sandra Diane Murray, 32, of 402 Laura Ave., was arrested by Pontoon Beach police this week on a charge of battery, resulting from a complaint signed by Myrtle Vincent, who alleged Mrs. Murray attacked her outside an apartment at 3901 Gaslight Walk.

Mrs. Murray was lodged at Granite City police headquarters and was released the same day upon posting a $102 cash bond.

The governor also said at the conference that Norman Li, a Chinese native and businessman with extensive international marketing experience will head DCCA's Hong Kong office.

DCCA Deputy Director Ed Martin made a trip to Japan earlier this year and recommended that Illinois open an office in Tokyo, a move that would help Japanese businesses see the benefit of expanding to Illinois.

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that a state office will open in Tokyo and will be run by a Japanese businessman who will work to bring business to Illinois.

"This new office will serve as a valuable link between the Japanese business community and the state of Illinois," said the governor at the fall conference of the Illinois Development Council.

"The strides Japan has made in past years in many facets of high technology and other ventures make it a very attractive market for Illinois to tap. We've been successful in the past in bringing business to Illinois and this office will serve as an anchor for our efforts in the Far East," he said.

Thompson said that Japanese businessman Tomojiro Tanaka will head the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) office. Tanaka, who is expected to begin work at the Tokyo office by Dec. 1, has worked and lived in Illinois for eight years and is currently a consultant to Dart-Kraft, Inc., of Glenview, Illinois. Tanaka is chairman of Nippon Steiner Company, the governor said, and has served as executive vice president of Maruichi America Corporation's Chicago office from 1960 to 1968. He also served as president of Rotary International.

Probation Department asks county to reconsider cuts

By JIM SCHLUETER

Three employees will have to be laid off from the county's adult and juvenile probation departments last week if the department takes the cut requested by the county's finance committee, according to department head Thurl Jones.

Jones and Associate Judge Nick Byron met with the finance committee last week to ask the committee to consider lowering the amount of reduction for the department.

"Our cuts would have to be in juvenile," Jones said. He said two probation workers and one secretary would have to go.

Jones also said if the 15 percent cut was implemented, he would like to reexamine the positions immediately and use the money that would be saved in the next fiscal year.

Byron told the committee that the probation department could not afford much of a reduction and still operate with the same efficiency.

"In light of across-the-board cuts, Thurl would have to make changes in the juvenile end, and I think that juvenile is extremely important," Byron said.

"He has limited personnel to begin with, and I'm asking that you reconsider the exact amount of reduction."

The county has asked all departments to take cuts in 1983 because of shrinking revenues, and the finance committee found out last week that the county will have to make do with approximately $1.7 million less in general fund expenditures in 1983 than in 1982.

The sheriff's department has already said that employee layoffs will be necessary in 1983 because of its reduced budget.

The animal control department has already begun layoffs.

American Heritage offers scholarships

American Heritage Bank of Granite City has announced its participation in a scholarship fund competition open to all high school seniors. A total of $5,000 will be awarded winners of an essay contest defining independent banking's contributions to the community.

The bank is a member of the Independent Bankers Association of America, a trade association of locally owned and operated banks that is conducting the Howard and Katherine Bell Scholarship Fund.

American Heritage Bank of Granite City is working with the High Schools North and South to invite seniors to submit short essays. Information on the contest is available both at the bank and the schools, but entries are to be made through the schools. Entries must be submitted to the high school counselors by Dec. 17, 1982, to be eligible for the judging. Prizes will be made directly to winners in mid-March.

The scholarship fund program has been established to honor the career of Howard Bell, retired executive director of IBAA, and his wife, for 25 years of service to the national banking association. IBAA is the only professional organization operated exclusively for the country's smaller banks.

Truancy group seeks cause of problem

The September meeting of the Madison County Truants Alternative Program Interagency Resource Group was held in the office of Harold E. Briggs, regional superintendent of schools.

Attending the meeting were representatives from 16 social service agencies, school personnel and business leaders. Also in attendance were Tom Grayson and Bill McCard from the Illinois State Board of Education.

The Interagency Resource Group will review the truancy cases with which local school personnel and local truancy offices have not been effective. On the assumption that the cause of the truanting behavior may be non-school problems such as medical for social problems, the different perspectives and resources of the Interagency Resource Group may be of great value in diagnosing the causes of truancy and devising additional intervention strategies which might be utilized by local attendance officers to assist them in their work with truanting students and their families.

Additional information concerning the Madison County Truants Alternative Program may be obtained by calling Dr. Janet Naseri, project coordinator, at 676-2383.

Proclaims Fire Prevention Week

Governor James R. Thompson has proclaimed Fire Prevention Week in Illinois.

"Although Illinois had a decrease in fire-related deaths and property loss in 1981 compared with 1980," Thompson said, "our people must continue to be aware of fire prevention practices and learn not to burn wherever you are."

"Learn not to burn wherever you are" is the national theme for Fire Prevention Week. "Fire Prevention Week is an opportunity to recognize the problems," he said, "but we must practice fire safety and fire prevention 52 weeks a year."

In his proclamation, the governor attributed the improvement to "persistent public education programs coupled with diligent attention to fire safety and fire service expertise."

In 1981, fire-related deaths totaled 320, a 42 percent decrease from the 550 in 1980. Insured fire losses paid in 1981 dropped 24 percent, to $79 million from $103.7 million in 1980.

State Fire Marshal Jack H. Carter pointed out that these dollar losses do not represent the total loss from fire, nor do they take into account uninsured or underinsured losses or those paid by non-licensed insurance carriers.

The governor's proclamation also noted that recent actions will help to foster further decreases: the creation of a High-Rise Fire Commission to determine ways to prevent the loss of life and property in apartments and other tall buildings; recent legislation requiring hotels, motels and multiple-dwelling units to post fire-exit notices and plans; and the continuing professional training of firefighters, particularly arson investigators.

Three injured, arrest driver

Three people were injured in an accident at Illinois Route 3 and Rock Road last week, and were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Police also arrested the driver of one vehicle, Samuel L. Johnson, 37, of 2801 Emzee St., on outstanding warrants and for two traffic violations in connection with the mishap.

Reports stated that Johnson's station wagon, headed west on Rock Road, crossed into the southbound lanes of Route 3 and collided with a vehicle operated by Lloyd M. Davis, 36, of Rural Route Two, Box 709R, Granite City, who was traveling south on Route 3.

Davis and a passenger in his auto, Kenneth L. Weaver, 49, of 2436 Rony Drive, both suffered injuries and were transported to the medical center. Also injured was Billie J. Johnson, 46, of 2801 Emzee St., who was taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Johnson was charged with driving with a suspended license, failure to yield the right-of-way at an intersection and outstanding warrants alleging failure to appear on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and failing to pay on a charge of battery.

LOOT VEHICLE

When the drive shaft broke on a vehicle belonging to Richard Fleetwood, 1647a Olive St., during the weekend, the owner left it overnight on Route 3 at West Pontoon Road and returned the next day to find thieves had stripped the car of its battery, worth $60, two stereo speakers, $60, 10 eight-track tapes, valued at $150, a spare tire, $40, mechanic's tools, $15, a wooden tape case, $10, and eight gallons of gas, he told police.

NOW Chapter seeks new members

This is New Member Month for the Tri-Cities Chapter of the National Organization for Women, part of an overall effort by NOW to recruit more than a million members through local chapter activities and print advertising campaign.

"Our goal is to double our membership locally," explained Norma Mendoza, president of the Tri-Cities Chapter of NOW. "Women are especially angered by the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment and by the assaults of the Reagan Administration, such as unfair rollbacks of programs that disproportionately hurt women. Unless we all join together, women stand to lose the modest gains of the last 50 years," Mrs. Mendoza added.

Nationwide, NOW has more than 800 chapters and 22,000 members, a figure that has doubled since the Reagan election. The Tri-Cities NOW Chapter was recently organized and started making the news with the "Women's Equality Day" Walkathon and participating in the Granite City Labor Day Parade.

Tri-Cities NOW members Mrs. Mendoza, Jane Dillard and Barbara Ryan of Granite City, Karen Middlecoff and Lynda Whittaker of Collinsville, Janice Staffil of Edwardsville and Mary Ann Randall of Florissant, Mo., have just returned from the National NOW Conference, held in Indianapolis this weekend, where elections for national officers were held.

At a national level, NOW is organizing a major advertising campaign using as a main theme, "We don't expect every woman to join NOW, just the 100 million who are discriminated against... and the men who care."

The first print advertisement has run in the inaugural edition of Granite City's national newspaper, USA Today. Ads also started running in national magazines including Newsweek, Ms., Working Woman, and others. A television campaign will be starting in targeted markets in October and rollout nationally in January.

Members of the community wanting to join NOW may call 482-7885 or 931-6881 for membership information. Annual dues to join range from $6 for low income to $35 including national, state and local dues.

The monthly meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m. in the main hall of the Presbyterian Church, 1700 Pontoon Road. The program will feature reports on the National Conference and discussions of issues and what task-forces Tri-Cities NOW will be dealing in the future.

Fifth anniversary of rape center is celebrated

By ED GURNEY
The Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center paused to celebrate its fifth anniversary last week, but it was only a brief look back. Center director Pam Klein has too many goals for the future to dwell very long on the past.

The center opened in a four-room house on the STEU campus in October 1977. It had two staff members and a budget of $15,000.

Today, it has four full-time and three part-time staff members, 25 volunteers and a budget of $101,000.

"The struggles we have won in the past five years are a good start, but much is yet to be done," states the center's five-year report. "There are still many, many women and children who are suffering physically and emotionally in silence."

"Many others do not understand or choose to ignore the reality of a very ugly crime..."

The center counsels victims and their families, and provides advocates for the victims in contacts with law enforcement and medical personnel, lawyers and other social service organizations.

It also needs to serve as the central agency in the area to coordinate communications between local police, hospitals, the state's attorney's office, social service agencies and area residents. Education and prevention are the center's other objectives.

Miss Klein, a Collinsville resident, had six years of rape crisis experience before becoming director of the Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center in 1977.

In the early 1970s, "you didn't mention rape" to people, she said. Slowly, the subject of rape has become something people talk about and try to deal with, she said.

"We've now evolved to take the same look at child sexual abuse and incest," she said.

It was no accident that a nationally known author of "Father's Days," a book on incest, gave a lecture Friday night in conjunction with a dinner celebrating the center's fifth anniversary. That author, Katherine Brady, said at a press conference Friday that sales of the book (50,000 copies in hardbound, 500,000 in paperback) show her that people are willing to talk about the subject.

Mrs. Brady, who now lives in New York city and makes her living as a lecturer, was the victim of incest between the ages of 8 and 18. When she was being victimized by her father, services such as those provided by the SUE center did not exist, she said.

Pam Klein described Mrs. Brady's decision to speak out "an extremely exciting step." Mrs. Brady debunks common myths about incest: that it happens only in the households of the poor and uneducated, and that only stepfathers are involved.

The problem of incest and child sexual abuse is widespread in St. Clair and Madison counties, Miss Klein said.

She said the center has seen "some unbelievable cases." It is currently seeing 38 children on an on-going basis.

Officials have declared that venereal disease is of epidemic proportions among children under age 12 in St. Clair and Madison counties.

To help illustrate the extent of the problem, she noted that in the previous week, six of the center's seven referrals were children between the ages of 3 and 13. In response to a reporter's question about how widespread the problem is in the area, Miss Klein said, "Everyone who reads your article knows at least five sexually abused children."

One of Miss Klein's goals is to have enough staff members to be able to do in-service training for small police departments on sexual abuse of children. The center also wants to present educational programs for children, beginning in grade school.

She also would like to have a reliable source of funding. The center this year has a larger budget than ever, but there is still uncertainty about the future, she said.

SUE still provides about half of the center's funding. SUE may also help realize another one of her goals: a move to a larger facility. She said the university has promised a bigger building to be made available next year by the opening of the multipurpose building.

Pam Klein said she feels very good that the center had managed to survive for five years. However, five years ago there was no way of knowing how many people the center would be seeing, she said.

She believes the center must continue to grow to meet the community's needs.

Sentenced to 120-day term

A 120-day term in the Madison County jail was ordered during a hearing here last week for David C. Catterson, 33, of 2480 Adams St.

He was arrested there the previous night after overturning chairs, breaking appliances and shattering bottles. Glass covered the floor of an upstairs apartment.

Catterson also was accused of using his hand to hit the face of his wife, Madonna. Windows were broken in a bedroom, the back door, the kitchen and the living room, and he suffered a hand cut.

When police arrived, he kicked and scuffled with them. Force was used to restrain him and take him to jail, where he was charged with disorderly conduct, battery and resisting arrest.

Alleges man invades home

Billy Wayne Johnson, 29, of 2805 Dale Ave., reported to police headquarters last week and was charged in an "informational" document issued by the Madison County state's attorney's office with home invasion.

The charge relates to an incident which occurred during the weekend at an apartment building above Ken's Lounge, 1539 E. 20th St.

A second man still is being sought in connection with the case, which involved a shot being fired in a hallway after two men pushed their way into the building.

MEMBERS ARE SOUGHT
St. Anthony's Make Teeny Count, a support group for persons facing cancer or another life-threatening illness, is seeking new members in need of an outlet for talking about their illness. All interested persons may attend the next meeting Tuesday, Oct. 19, at 7 p.m. in the pediatric playroom of St. Anthony's Hospital, Alton. No reservations are required and there are no dues.

Grant to fight unemployment

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that Illinois has received a $240,000 grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration to aid small businesses in several communities.

"The purpose of this grant is to provide some much needed capital to small businesses in Peoria, Decatur, Rockford and Kankakee," said Thompson. "These cities have been especially hard hit in these bad economic times, so we made a concerted effort to come up with federal dollars to bolster the smaller firms there."

The funds will be used to establish a Revolving Loan Fund for use by small businesses contemplating expansion in areas faced with high unemployment. These funds will be used in concert with other resources from state, local governments, and private institutions. The program will be administered by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

Governor links future jobs and school planning

Frequently assailed by educators, Gov. James R. Thompson outlined a program last week to "reshape educational opportunities in Illinois and help prepare students for employment in the economy of the future."

The Education for Employment Program is a five-part plan to "adapt Illinois' education resources for the last quarter of the 20th Century."

He said, "The coming years will be marked with rapid changes in the state, world and national economy. We must be prepared to accept those changes with a sound education program. 'The quality of our education system is not only a result of the resources which state and local taxpayers provide, but it also depends on the ability of state and local leaders to adopt to the economy of the future,' he contended.

The plan calls for improving mathematics and science literacy among students, providing job training in growing employment fields, expanding loan programs for college students, stepping up the emphasis on engineering education studies, and finding ways to improve state funding for elementary and secondary education.

"While Illinois students have maintained the pace in math and science scores on the national level over the past five years," Thompson said, "almost half of Illinois' graduating seniors took only one year of science. About 30 percent have taken more than one year of math during their high school studies."

Among other projects, he is proposing a six-week summer program in 1983 for 2,000 students and more than 300 teachers to provide advanced training in mathematics, computer literacy, foreign language and science.

Cider—a fall treat
from Illinois apples

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Apple cider is the accepted name for the undiluted natural, unfermented juice of whole, sound apples.

Cider made from fall maturing apples is usually the best in flavor. This is true for both home-made and commercial squeezings. Cider quality is determined by the maturity and mix of apple varieties, the type of press, and the cleanliness of the press and containers. Most presses are acceptable if they are kept clean and free of old fruit residue.

Firm, ripe apples—those that are ripe enough to eat out of hand—make the best cider and give the highest yield. Immature apples give a "green" flavored juice, and overripe apples give little juice and are difficult to squeeze.

Some of the best ciders are blends of varieties. Thus, a combination of tart (Jonathan), low acid (Grimes, Golden Delicious), and aromatic (Delicious, McIntosh) varieties will give a sweet, full flavored cider. Cider at this time of the year should contain 11.5 to 12.5 percent sugar.

The apples should be sound and clean. Wash or brush to remove dirt and spray with a fungicide.

Fruit must be ground or grated into a fine pulp. This pulp is then put into a press sack or cloth to be pressed.

Pressing should include as much pressure as possible to squeeze out all the juice. Home presses should yield 2 to 3 gallons of juice per bushel of apples, whereas commercial growers with hydraulic presses should get 3 to 4 gallons per bushel.

The pressed juice should be strained to remove coarse particles and then refrigerated immediately. Some setting of solids will occur while cooling. The juice can then be siphoned off above the settlings for a cleaner product.

Cider can be stored in the refrigerator for 1 to 2 weeks. Freezing is a good method for long-term storage if 10 to 15 percent air space is left in the container for expansion while freezing. These methods maintain the fresh cider flavor.

Other methods of preservation are chemical treatment, pasteurization, and canning. However, most consumers prefer the fresh and frozen product. Home gardeners with presses should consider making cider several times during the fall to have the fresh juice.

Those without presses could contact their favorite orchards or market for their supply.

WARRANT ARREST
Steven S. Schneider, 20, of 2041 Emery Ave., was arrested at National Food Store early this week on a warrant alleging failure to appear on a reckless driving charge. He posted a $100 cash bond and was released.

1 Corinthians 3:7 "So then neither is he that planteth anything, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase."

We certainly can't miss the meaning Paul is trying to convey to us in his scripture reading. First of all do you begin to minimize your importance to God? You are not insignificant in his sight. He is a faithful and committed to his will. He will make your efforts count. You simply plant or water and He takes care of the results.

When we maintain the proper attitude toward our service to Him, then we are sure to receive the glory. God gives the increase. Comes across to us. And to the world.

Do your part. Today.

3 judges unopposed in county election Nov. 2

CHARLES CHAPMAN

PHILIP RARICK

P. J. O'NEILL

Charles W. "Bill" Chapman, 41, is unopposed in the Nov. 2 election for the Victor J. Mosele circuit judgeship. Chapman has been serving as a circuit judge in the Mosele position by appointment since Dec. 12, 1980, after previous appointive service from Nov. 14, 1979, to Dec. 1, 1980, in the William Beatty judicial post.

Chapman was elected to the A. A. Mateosian in the 1980 voting. The appointments were made by the Supreme Court of Illinois. Beatty became a federal judge and Mosele was not retained by voters in November 1980.

A Democrat, Chapman is running this year for the position formerly known as Circuit Judge. He was a lawyer of considerable skill and has an exemplary record as a judge.

Currently residing in the Edwardsville area, Judge Chapman was born in Granite City and was reared in Madison, graduating from Madison High School in 1959. He later resided in Granite City and his law practice was based here.

He earned a bachelor degree in chemistry from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and his law degree from St. Louis University. While in law school, he worked part-time as a research chemist at the John Cochran Veterans Hospital, St. Louis.

Chapman served as a law clerk for U.S. District Judge Homer Poos and in 1968 entered the practice of law with Morris Chapman, who is no relation to him.

In 1970, Charles W. Chapman became a partner and the local law firm of Chapman and Chapman was organized.

The soon-to-be judge returned to SIUE in 1978 to complete work for a master degree in economics, during that period he remained active with the law firm on a consulting basis.

He and his wife, the former Judy Severine, a registered nurse, have three children, Christina, Tom and Sarah. A member of numerous legal associations, he is a past president of the Tri-City Bar Association.

In his initial judicial election campaign, he said in public talks, "I've worked hard all my life, beginning as a paper boy and continuing through the time I spent as a steelworker. I worked nights and summers while attending college."

"I then worked as a chemist to support my family while attending law school at night. And I was a trial lawyer for 12 years before becoming a circuit judge."

He is actually feeling the difference between a pair of Strides and a pair of "ordinary socks" or "we'll give you your money back. If tired legs have been getting you down, come in and pick up a pair of Jockey-Stride support socks."

Now you can wear counterpressure with over the calf lightweight support socks. Made by Jockey for tired legs. Four sizes available in eight masculine colors.

Unopposed Nov. 2 for the Harold Clark judgeship, Circuit Judge Phillip J. Rarick is campaigning in Madison and Bond counties. He was appointed to the position by the Illinois Supreme Court in December 1980.

After Judge Clark became a law judge of the U.S. Social Security Administration, the Clark position was held by A. A. Mateosian. The latter was elected to a different circuit judgeship in November 1980.

Judge Rarick before going on the bench was city attorney for Collinsville from 1969 to 1975.

Former Mayor Lewis Krause said, "It is with great pleasure that I have agreed to head his campaign for circuit judge. He was a lawyer of considerable skill and has an exemplary record as a judge."

He rose to chief associate judge before the Illinois Supreme Court elevated him to circuit judge nearly two years ago. He is serving in the criminal felony division, where he maintains a current docket.

His experience also includes three terms as an assistant state's attorney in Madison County. He has also served as an assistant state's attorney in Madison County.

He is a member of local and state bar associations and is a former chairman of the State Bar Association's public relations committee.

He has lectured for the Southern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. O'Neill resides in Alton with his wife, Jane, and their two sons.

O'Neill Jr. and he is known as "P.J."

Two injured, charge driver

In an accident involving a parked vehicle at 20th and Madison, two men sustained injuries and the driver, Jimmie D. Poe Jr., 17, of 2041 Emery Ave., was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI) and driving while his license was suspended.

Officers called to the scene said a strong odor of alcohol came from Poe, who allegedly was having difficulty standing. He and a passenger, Bradley J. Sullivan, 20, of 2465 Pontoon Road, were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Sullivan was treated for pain in his left chest and shoulder area and for a bump to his head. He was admitted. Poe suffered a 3-inch laceration on his forehead and a 1-inch laceration to his left eye. He was treated in the emergency room and was released to officers.

At police headquarters, Poe allegedly declined to take a breathalyzer test. He was released at 6:15 p.m. Saturday on payment of a $302 cash bond.

According to a police spokesman, the vehicle operated by Poe was traveling east on 20th Street and allegedly struck the rear of an auto owned by Randall Valeriano, 1028 Iowa St. Madison, which was parked at 20th and Quincy. The impact caused Poe's auto to be knocked into the intersection.

Steelers finish second Warriors win county harrier meet

By Roger Kramer
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Granite City South's girls cross country team won the girls division of the Madison County cross-country meet at Granite City North Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the Steelers' boys team missed winning the boys division by two points. Triad won that division with 35 points while North had 37 points.

South's girls easily defeated second place Edwardsville 39-61. Highland was third with 73 points, Collinsville was fourth 82 points, and North was fifth with 90 points.

Collinsville's Pam Quarengi improved her status as the area's top cross country runner by running the 2.7 mile course 12:38. Lora Wiser, a freshman at Granite City South, finished second with 13:29.

Quarengi, Pam Judisack of O'Fallon, and Lora are the best three runners in the area. South coach Richard Harmon said the area's really running well. She's one of the top freshmen in the state.

South's Mary Bisch was fourth with 13:56, Michelle Shoemaker was eighth with 14:53, Connie Williamson was 12th with 15:34, Angela Grabowski was 17th with 15:51, and Mary Romine was 19th with 15:56.

Romine, who is usually South's fourth runner, was suffering from an ankle injury and did not run up to her usual time.

"Mary and Michelle both had great races, and Connie and Angie both showed a lot of improvement and finished well," Harmon said.

Vicki Schaefer was 16th for North with 15:49, and Paula Rozyczki was 18th with 15:56 to earn medals for the Steelers.

"I'm proud of the progress and the work the girls have made this year," North assistant coach Paul Heffner said. "This has been a building year for us since the nucleus of our team are freshmen and sophomores."

North's boys missed winning their title because of tactical mistake. Otherwise, the day would have been a perfect one for the Steeler boys.

Jim Robertson of North won the race in 16:02, 19 seconds ahead of second place Tim Singler of Triad.

However, Triad placed its top four runners in second, third, sixth and seventh to clinch the team title.

Ken Meyer was fifth (16:38) for North, Bill Schaefer was eighth with 17:03, John Peters was 10th with 17:09, Ken Kalka was 12th with 17:14, and Keith Bono was 18th with 17:26.

The North course was expanded to three miles for this meet, the Gateway East Conference meet, and the Regional meet.

Peters led the first through the three-quarter-mile mark, but he couldn't keep up the pace for the entire race.

"It was just a tactical mistake on John's part," North coach Pete

Granite North Steelers

Robinson said. "In our meet against Belleville East, he ran the course 30 seconds faster than he did in this meet."

"I think he's better than the sixth or seventh man for Triad. I'm not blaming John for the loss though," Robinson said.

However, Robinson was pleased with Kalka's performance. "If you would have told me Ken would finish 12th, I would have thought we had the meet sewn up. I thought he made a big effort," Robinson said.

South and Civic Memorial (Bethalto) tied for last place with 188 points. Ray Romine finished 37th (18:48) for South's best performance.

Both North's and South's varsity teams are idle until Oct. 22 when both teams run in the Gateway East Conference meet at Granite City North. The freshman-sophomore teams run in the Steeler Invitational Oct. 20.

Metro-East Lutheran downs Trojans, 6-1

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

Gene Briggs, Madison soccer coach, probably would be the first to admit that his is not a skilled team; the Trojans depend on hustle.

"But lately, Madison has had its share of problems going scoreless in three of the last four games and losing the fourth Tuesday 6-1 to the visiting Metro-East Lutheran Knights.

"It was a bad game for the Trojans from the start when the Knights scored about 30 seconds into the first quarter."

"Today was very indicative of the problems we've had the last few games," Briggs said. "We're not a skill team. That's pretty obvious from watching us. We have to be able to hustle, outplay the other team."

"While the Trojans displayed flashes of cohesiveness as a team, for the most part they play seemed disjointed, as if they were playing an individual rather than a team sport. Part of that most certainly is due to inexperience — most of the Trojans had not played soccer before high school."

"And although Madison had prime scoring opportunities several times, they just could not put the ball in."

"We should have scored five goals with the set ups that were there and the rebounds we had," Briggs said.

Madison did pick up by the end of the game and through the fourth quarter played much better although the Knights put in two more goals that quarter.

Trojan Michael Young scored late in the game on an assist from Derrick Newsome.

The Knight's Cliff Dellamano scored a hat trick, putting in the first, second and fourth goals. The last unassisted on a long shot from about 30 yards out. Craig Detering scored the fifth and sixth goals and assisted on the third goal of the game by Mike Modric of Granite City. Craig's brother Mark assisted on Dellamano's second goal.

"I think they're a little better than what they played," Ed Sievers, Knights coach, said of Madison. The Knights took their record to 6-4 with the win and Madison dropped to 5-8.

"I've seen this before," Briggs said of the season thus far. He termed the Trojans' problems as "midseason doldrums."

Still, a glint of optimism remained. "There is talent on this team. We have talent. Now, they're playing kind of spotty."

"In order for us to pull out of our slump, we'll have to have a total team effort from every player at every position," he said.

"The Trojans picked up their first victory Tuesday in the first singles match as Angela Pinkston defeated

Andrea Suarez in straight sets 7-5, 6-2. In second singles competition, Sherri Ousley downed South's Nancy Jones in three sets 6-1, 6-7, 6-2 to secure North's third victory.

In third singles, South picked up their first victory as Dina Lombardi defeated Tracy Hadley 6-2, 6-1.

North's Maria Parra picked up the Steelers' third victory in the fourth and Trojan goalkeeper Steve Campbell made some good saves during the game as did Knight's keeper Doug Rankin, who is from Venice.

And while Madison's play was indeed "spotty," Leroy Pryor had some notable moments on defense and DeLoyd Williams, John Lewis, Robert Bishop, Young, Newsome and Mark Martinez played quite well at times.

Taylor Schulz of Granite City also plays for the Knights on defense. Schulz gave considerable assistance in the backfield during the game.

Steeler netters defeat Warriors 4-2 Tuesday

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North girls' tennis team picked up their third win of the season Tuesday afternoon as they defeated cross-town rival Granite City South 4-2.

The Steelers, now 3-0 on the season, have defeated South on both meetings this year. North's third victory came against Bethalto on Sept. 9.

The Trojans picked up their first victory Tuesday in the first singles match as Angela Pinkston defeated Andrea Suarez in straight sets 7-5, 6-2.

In second singles competition, Sherri Ousley downed South's Nancy Jones in three sets 6-1, 6-7, 6-2 to secure North's third victory.

In third singles, South picked up their first victory as Dina Lombardi defeated Tracy Hadley 6-2, 6-1.

North's Maria Parra picked up the Steelers' third victory in the fourth and final singles match as she defeated the Warriors' Dawn Bowers 6-2, 6-4 in straight sets.

In first doubles action, North's Pinkston, and Beth Suess defeated Laura Smolar and Sandy Hagen 6-1, 6-1. In third doubles, South's Andrea Suarez and Linda Driser fell to North's Kim Smith and Sandra Sunderick 7-5, 6-3.

The second doubles contest which featured North's Hadley and Ousley against Lombardi and Jones was cancelled due to darkness. At the point of cancellation each team won a set. North, however, was leading 4-2 in team competition, so the outcome of the match was academic.

The Steelers face Belleville East Monday, Oct. 18, at 4 p.m. That match is at home.

CATCHING HER WIND. Although Teresa Naler of Granite City North finished 29th in the girls' division of the Madison County cross country meet Tuesday at Granite City North, she gave her all. Naler was so exhausted from the run that she leaned against a fence to regain her composure. Granite City South finished first in the girls meet and the Steeler boys were second in the boys division.

Action befitting a championship team

It's common knowledge among soccer fans by now that Granite South won its own Tournament of Champions by defeating McCluer North 1-0 Saturday night. But the memory of crucial plays performed with skill by the Warriors will linger in the minds of many. Shown here, clockwise from left to right, are several such moments from the tournament.

South's Tony Segobiano scores the winning goal against Reitz Memorial on a penalty kick in the second overtime. Segobiano was named to the "All Tournament Team."

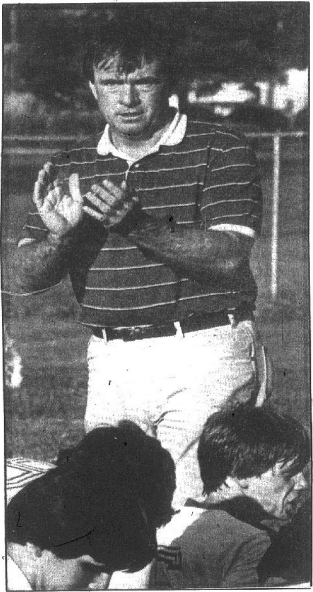

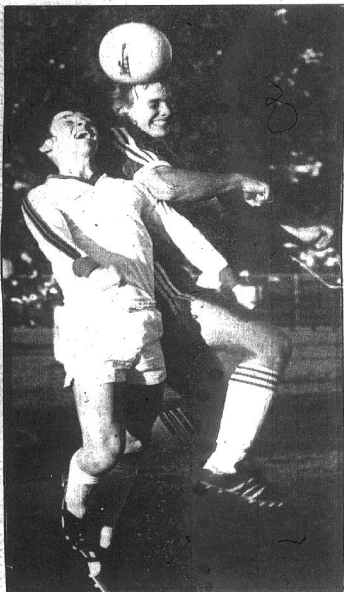

Reitz goalkeeper Jim Flynn makes a flying save on a Warrior shot. Flynn also was named to the "All Tournament Team." South's Nathan Crane, No. 16 and Phil Popmarkoff, far left, move in on the play.

Brad Golden, of Collinsville, becomes wedged between two New Trier players during the consolation final of the tourney. Golden was taken to the hospital after being injured on the play. His teammates went on to lessen his pain by bringing in a 2-0 victory.

Gene Baker, South coach, encourages the team at halftime.

Lackluster Steeler kickers down Belleville West

By MIKE MOORE
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Although the Granite City High School North soccer team defeated Belleville West 2-1 Tuesday night, in general coach Bob Kehoe was "not satisfied" with the Steelers play.

"They didn't play well until the fourth quarter. I had serious doubts about winning the game," said Bob Kehoe, North's coach. "With the way we've been playing this season, I would've been happy if we would have tied," Kehoe said.

The game started off slow without a score in the first quarter.

Belleville West's Mark Cordes scored in the second quarter and with 7:20 left in the third quarter, North's Steve Trittschuh scored on an assist from Dave Sheik to tie the game 1-1.

Trittschuh headed the ball into the back of the net from a corner kick from Sheik.

"I was tickled to death with Trittschuh's goal," Kehoe said.

With only 2:23 left in the fourth quarter, North's Benny Nolan scored the tie-breaking goal. It was almost as if Nolan had a personal ambition to score.

Nolan had received a yellow card early in the fourth quarter. But after that warning Nolan settled down and played a decent soccer game, according to Kehoe.

"Nolan persisted and got the ball in. He made me for his yellow card," Kehoe said. "Nolan has scored some important goals this season. He's one of our leading players," Kehoe added. Nolan, a halfback, has had seven goals this season.

"Our goalkeeper, Rich Branding made some saves for us," Kehoe said. "Trittschuh too played a reasonably strong game," Kehoe said.

North had 20 shots at goal opposed to Belleville's 11, but Kehoe and Dave Ames, assistant coach agree that Belleville outplayed North.

"We didn't play well at all until the closing minutes when the intensity and the pressure built up," Kehoe said. "Belleville West was doing what we should've been doing and it shouldn't be that way. We were standing and watching," Ames said.

Kehoe was basically impressed with Belleville's team. "They were very competitive, they worked well. They looked for each other as a team and a unit and they were successful at it," Kehoe said.

"I wish I knew the reason why we're playing so inconsistently, so I could correct it!" Kehoe said. "Hopefully, I'll discover the reason soon," he said.

One reason for North's inconsistency is that the team is imbalanced, Kehoe said. It has a wide margin between the experienced players and the inexperienced players, according to Kehoe.

"The inconsistency is driving me crazy," Kehoe said. "We're just not putting out enough effort to win," he explained.

The Steeler kickers take on Edwardsville tomorrow in a make up game from last Saturday's rained out game. The Jayvee game starts at 3:30 p.m. at North and the varsity at approximately 5 p.m. The Steeler's meet Cahokia on Saturday here at 10:30 a.m.

"It's hard to predict our games because of our inconsistency. I wish I could say we are going to win these next games, but it is just too hard to say," Kehoe said. "Our next few games should be interesting," he said.

North's record is now 6-8-1.

Sports of all Sorts

Everyone wants Series tickets

By AL BARNES
For the Press-Record

It's amazing how many friends a sports reporter has when the baseball team in the city in which he formerly covered the sport makes it to the World Series.

The St. Louis Cardinals were barely airborne on their flight back from Atlanta the other evening after wrapping up the National League flag, when the phone started ringing with pleas, a lot of them almost tearfully, requesting my help in landing them tickets to the Red Birds' clash with the Brewers.

I even got a call from a man from Tulsa, Okla., for whom I'd obtained four ducats to the Boston Red Sox vs. St. Louis Cards 1946 World Series.

He was highly indignant that I couldn't do him any good now. "Man," he snarled, "how some men forget their friends" and hung up before I could remind him that, first, he'd never thanked me for the tickets in 1946 and secondly, I am not now an active member of the Baseball Writers of America.

Before my caller from Tulsa hung up in anger, I asked him how he had managed to keep in touch with me all these years. He sheepishly replied, "I called the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and they gave me your phone number."

Most of my callers requesting help on series tickets took my inability to help them in good grace. I was surprised, too, at the number of callers who remembered me from handling the actual chores of managing the press box during the 1946 World Series.

My boss and sports editor where I worked, the St. Louis Star-Times, Sid Keener, was the official man in charge, but you know how those things work out. The King (Mr. Keener) was a great delegator and so I got the job.

Just two years before the Boston vs. St. Louis 46 Autumn Classic, St. Louis had handled the war-time series between the Browns and the Red Birds, and eight others. But, the one against Ted Williams and the Red Sox was my first.

The series, of course, was played at old Sportsman Park. The press box there was about average for the National League at the time. So, when Mr. Keener and I started working on the seating arrangements for the working press, we decided that we would allocate a 30-inch space for each working reporter and his Western Union operator.

Well, such a plan was utterly out of reason. First, because of the tremendous demand for press credentials from all over the nation. Most of the nation's daily papers were in early. But, what blew our minds, was the requests from weeklies and magazines, etc., for press tickets. I remember, very clearly, a detailed letter from the "Sports Editor" of National Poultry Review for himself "and my photographer."

Meanwhile, Mr. Keener was getting demands from his wide range of friends

Both in and out of sports.

Soon, it became obvious that the regular press box section would not be enough to handle the demand. And, remember, too, that those were the days before television. So, it was decided to take the three sections immediately below the press box in the upper level.

But, first a decision was made to cut the space allocated to each reporter and his Western Union operator down to 18 inches.

Press box security then became a prime consideration. We knew, of course, that there would be attempts to crash the section. So, sure enough the day after the first game, in the new area, a great satiny arse. I rushed to the area and the man causing the uproar was Kayo Koverly, a pro wrestler. I quickly solved the problem by appointing him supervisor of the lower level press box.

IHSA golf finals begin this Friday

GRANITE CITY — Jeff Pare, Granite City's only high school golfer to compete in the Granite City North Sectional Tuesday, finished below the qualifying line for state competition at Arlington Golf Course. Pare, representing Granite City High School South, finished the 18-hole competition with a score of 90.

Pare was one of 100 golfers representing 25 downstate high schools that gathered at Arlington for the Illinois State High School Association's sectional.

According to IHSA guidelines for state qualification, only the first three teams and the top five scoring players not members of those qualifying teams advance.

Those advancing to state competition from the North Sectional include Belleville East, Highland and Edwardsville.

The Lancers, which managed a first place finish in regional competition, won the sectional with a team score of 316. Highland finished second in the team standings with a score of 317 and Edwardsville was third with a score of 318.

Despite the obvious stiff competition from area teams, Pare was optimistic about his chances of advancing to state finals action.

"There are some real good golfers out here today, but I'm hopeful of turning in a good round too," Pare said.

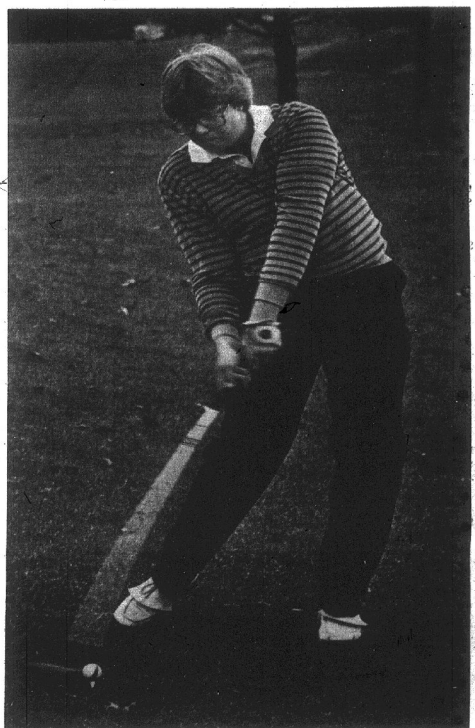

Tuesday's cool temperatures hindered most golfers, but Pare thought the cooler weather was a blessing. "You know, I don't mind the cool weather. Later, I've been playing better when it's cooler."

Unfortunately, Tuesday's cooler weather didn't help Pare as much as he had hoped. His score was eight strokes more than 82 he shot last week which qualified him for the sectional.

The North Sectional was one of six statewide in preparation for the State Golf Finals on Oct. 15 and 16. The Class A finals are scheduled for Arrowhead Golf Course in Chillicothe, while the AA finals will be held at Kellogg Golf Course in Peoria.

STATE QUALIFYING TEAMS
Belleville East, 316; Highland, 317; Edwardsville, 318.

STATE QUALIFIERS
Chris Russell, BVE 73; Bob Pavelonis, Harrisburg 74; Dave Fisher, Quincy 74; Todd Gedamski, Springfield 75; Ken Whitehead, BYW 75; Jeff Mory, Springfield High; Shawn Smith, Stephan-Decatur 77.

WARMING UP. Jeff Pare of Granite City High School South took time to shoot a bucket of balls Tuesday prior to the Illinois State High School Granite City North Sectional at Arlington Golf Course. Pare turned in a good performance as he shot 90, but it was not good enough to qualify him for the state finals to be held this Tuesday. (Press-Record Photo by Al Gerstenecker)

Gateway grid battles Friday

Both Granite City High School North and South take on Gateway East Conference foes this Friday night in gridiron contests. The Steelers face Edwardsville in Tiger Country at 8 p.m. as visiting Belleville Althoff takes on the Warriors at 7:30 p.m.

Going into Friday's contest, Althoff leads the GEC with a 3-2 record, while Jerry McKechnan's Warriors still seek their first win.

Probably the best battle in the area Friday night will be the North-Edwardsville game. The Steelers, a defense oriented team, will take on the offense oriented Tiger team of Dick Ford. Both teams are 2-3 overall.

Five games into the season, the Tigers lead the conference in total offensive points: 103. The Steelers, however, are fourth in the conference with offensive points, but lead the GEC with fewest defensive points yielded: a mere 48.

Edwardsville, however, has yielded 80 points on defense, second only to Granite City South.

Steeler Boosters to meet

The Sports Boosters of Granite City High School North will hold its monthly meeting, this evening, Thursday, Oct. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in that school's cafeteria.

The main topic of discussion will be the upcoming fourth-annual chicken-beer dance scheduled for this Saturday, Oct. 16, at the Knights of Columbus Hall located at 21st Street and Edison. Entertainment for the dance will be provided by Darla Bolt and the Quicksilver band. Tickets for the fund raiser, which will run from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m., may be purchased from booster club officers.

The public is invited to attend.

Piasa to offer help for troubled workers

Piasa Health Care has been awarded a contract with the Division of Alcoholism, - Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, to market Employee Assistance Programs for employers with workites in Madison County.

An Employee Assistance Program (EAP) is a means of identifying and helping "troubled employees" whose work performance is lowered due to personal problems. Typical problems that affect on-the-job behavior are alcohol and other drug abuse, emotional and financial difficulties and family conflict.

Alcohol-related problems remain the single largest factor in on-site job problems, with approximately 10 percent of the labor force being affected, according to the National Council on Alcoholism.

The contract calls for Piasa Health Care (formerly the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence) to present EAP concepts to employers and to offer technical assistance in the development of policy statements and procedures. Piasa also will provide training to supervisors and other key employees. There will be no charge to employers who agree to establish an EAP. Unions also are eligible for EAP's, according to the contract. Piasa Health Care is a non-profit corporation specializing in the prevention and treatment of alcohol and other drug abuse in Madison County. The agency is based in Wood River and has facilities in Alton, Granite City and Edwardsville.

WRONG-WAY DRIVERS ARE CHARGED HERE

Observing a vehicle being operated the wrong way on a one-way street recently, an officer stopped the driver at Niedringhaus and Grand avenues and allegedly seeing two women inside the car switch seats.

Upon hearing conflicting stories from the two officers charged Tammy M. Coons, 17, of Caseyville, with not having a valid driver's license and violating the curfew ordinance. A 16-year-old girl, also from Caseyville, was charged with a curfew violation. Both were released on notice to appear.

While at that location, the officers saw another vehicle turn off Niedringhaus Avenue and also travel the wrong way on Grand Avenue. The two men inside the car allegedly had beer in the vehicle and were arrested.

Alan L. Turcott, 22, of 2666 Madison Ave., was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol and driving the wrong way on a one-way street. A passenger in the auto, Thomas W. Pope, 21, of 1104 Twenty-first St., was charged with illegal possession of alcohol. Turcott was released after posting his driver's license and Pope was released on notice to appear.

4 charges on ring theft

Four charges were filed last week against Harding Lovett, 25, of 137 Garesche Homes, Madison, the suspect in the previous day's theft of a $3,495 ring. The ring was found in his undershorts when he was searched at the police station, officers said.

He was named for felony retail theft (more than $300 value), petty theft, resisting a police officer and battery. He pleaded innocent in a court hearing and his bond was set at $30,000, or $3,000 cash.

Instead of going to a parked auto in which two women were seated, he noticed the policeman and walked into the Hirsch store for a few seconds. He next entered the shopping center parking lot.

Glasses and a watchband of the policeman were broken and he was treated at the doctor's office for minor injuries.

The 14-karat gold ring had 14 diamonds. It and the ring box and prescription blanks are among the evidence assembled for the prosecution.

2 seek county treasurer post

A second four-year elective term as Madison County treasurer is sought Nov. 2 by Michael S. "Mick" Henkhaus, 39, The Bethalto Democrat — was initially elected in 1978, he ran unsuccessfully for the office in 1974.

"In the first three years I increased the investment of idle funds by 11 percent, bringing the total invested to 93 percent," Henkhaus says. "My office this year instituted a cash management program that will assure the investment of 100 percent of idle money."

"Increased investment—coupled with the combining of small accounts—resulted in more than $4,800,000 in interest being earned in the first three years of my tenure."

"Since 1978, the entire budget for the treasurer's office has decreased at 3 times when other levels of government are increasing their spending."

"The decrease was accomplished by starting more efficient office procedures and by eliminating employees who served no function in the office or who performed poorly."

"I have been criticized for dealing with this inefficiency, but when public officials have the opportunity to increase efficiency and cut waste, they should do so."

"If the situation arose again, I would not hesitate to do the same. The treasurer of the county and rank-and-file labor support me in this matter."

"Public employees must never lose sight of who they work for: the people."

"By reorganizing the office and combining jobs, I eliminated four positions and saved taxpayers close to $200,000 over a period of three years."

"I am the only county treasurer in Illinois who has signed a labor contract with his employees."

"For the past ten years, taxpayers of this county had to pay their real estate tax installments within 30 days of each other. For the last three years, I have given taxpayers an extension of 30 days, for a 60-day total in which to pay both installments."

"It is not my fault or the taxpayers' fault that tax bills have been late. The burden of catching up should be on the government, not the citizen."

"Through the use of computers, heavier emphasis on collection of mobile home taxes, and presorting of mail, both the collection and distribution have been done at the county level in a faster, more economical and more conscientious manner than ever before. I am proud of this record."

Township collectors opposed Henkhaus in earlier years and established their right to collect property taxes in the period before Sept. 1. After that date, the county completes the collection process and balances the amounts due the various local, county and regional taxing agencies.

He says he has implemented all the corrective recommendations of a Price Waterhouse study that criticized slowness by his staff in investing funds.

He notes that county school boards took a neutral stand after some had adopted a resolution in late 1981. The resolution assailed the speed at which tax collections were forwarded to school districts, many of which have found it necessary to borrow large sums.

"Henkhaus' primary election success has been achieved without the endorsement of the executive board of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee. However, the party organization has backed him in November balloting."

He refers to himself as "a loyal and independent Democrat."

Henkhaus comments, "I am seeking re-election because I am a good treasurer and a good Democrat. I want to see that the people get the best possible public officials."

"I want to see the party as strong and as responsive to the people as possible. For the past 10 years, I have been in Bethalto while being educated in parochial schools."

The Civic Memorial High School graduate attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and served six years in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Henkhaus is a member of the Knights of Columbus, an associate member of the Madison County Police Association, and a member of state and national treasurer associations.

He has been a member of the Machinists, Pipefitters, Steelworkers and Operating Engineers as well as the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The official attends Our Lady Queen of Peace Church in Bethalto and resides in that community with his sons, Mike 13, and Matt, 11.

Robert C. "Bob" Barton of Nameoki Township captured the Republican nomination in the March primary to oppose Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus in the Nov. 2 general election.

The veteran Realtor is waging an active campaign and is hopeful of scoring an upset victory despite the proponent of a Democratic voters in this county.

Barton is critical of the way the treasurer's office has been operated, including investment and distribution policies.

He pledges improved procedures and performance if elected.

Barton, 39, has been active in politics for a number of years and is a past Nameoki Township Republican chairman. He holds an honorable discharge from the U.S. Army following service from 1963 to 1965 in the First Cavalry honor guard.

A real estate broker dealing with residential and commercial property, he has operated his own firm here since 1973.

In addition to carrying out real estate sales and appraisals, he is also a building contractor, specializing in the construction of professional office buildings.

A member for five years—until the current election campaign—of the State Real Estate Examining Committee of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education, appointed by the governor, he currently serves on the board of directors of the Illinois Association of Realtors.

Barton, 1982 president of the Granite City Board of Realtors, headed the Pontiac Beach Lions Club in 1981-82.

He is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and is one of the founding members of the Italian-American Club of Madison County. In 1977, Barton headed the real estate section of the Tri-Cities Area

BOB BARTON

United Way drive.

The father of Andrea, 12, and Michael, 10, he attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and has a certificate in industrial management.

The committee formed for his election campaign describes Barton as "a man you can trust to put the people's interests first."

"County government is big business, calling for integrity and good business know-how. Barton, if elected, would bring those qualities to the job of county treasurer, taking responsibility for the handling of county tax dollars."

"The man who administers the accounting and investment of these tax funds should have the qualities he possesses."

"In performing his duties in real estate, appraisals and contracting, he has met payrolls on time, budgeted his finances, and become intimately acquainted with the importance of getting the highest return on cash until it is needed."

Everett G. Steele, who is retiring later this year from the office of state representative, is serving as treasurer of the Committee to Elect Bob Barton to the office of county treasurer.

Volunteers here exceed Army goal

The U.S. Army St. Louis District Recruiting Command has announced that 4,565 men and women enlisted during federal fiscal year 1982, which ended Sept. 30.

Of these, 3,257 joined the active Army, while 1,308 enlisted in the Army Reserve. Army recruiters within the local district achieved 114 percent of their active Army goal and 117 percent of their reserve Army mission.

Army recruiters were also successful in enlisting more high school diploma graduates than ever before. Eighty-five percent of the men and women who joined the Army through the St. Louis district this year had such a diploma.

A spokesman attributed the success of local recruiters to "a favorable public opinion of the military in the St. Louis area and increased cooperation from academic and civic leaders."

He added that the Army's offer of a wide variety of incentives like the Army College Fund, is attracting high school seniors and graduates in increasing numbers.

The district recruiting command is responsible for Army recruiting activities in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri. It is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Donald E. Jones.

Gaffner critical of Price's vote against balanced budget

Robert H. Gaffner, 21st District U.S. Congressional candidate (R-Greenview), has criticized his opponent, Rep. Melvin Price (D-East St. Louis), for voting against the proposed Balanced Budget Amendment.

"I am extremely disappointed that Mr. Price has again decided to vote against the sentiment of the American people and for more and more government spending which leads to higher taxes. The failure of the House of Representatives to pass this amendment is a slap in the face of the American taxpayer," Gaffner said.

While Gaffner expresses some reservations about tampering with the Constitution, he said that a one trillion dollar deficit mandates Congressional action to bring government spending under control. He said that members of Congress at the present time have no incentive to vote for less spending.

Gaffner quoted from a Senate Judiciary Committee report which stated that the Balanced Budget Amendment would constrain federal spending because it would force Congress to "cast a politically difficult vote (to raise taxes) as a precondition for a politically attractive vote to increase spending."

Gaffner indicated that he was not surprised about Price's vote against the amendment, citing statistics compiled by the National Taxpayers Union which ranked Price as a "Big Spender." In 1981 the NTU gave Price a score of 17 which put him in the upper one percentile of members who consistently voted for increased spending in the federal budget.

"Mel Price is the biggest spender in the entire Illinois delegation and the eighth biggest spender in the House of Representatives. This amendment would have made members of the House, like Mr. Price, more accountable for their spending habits," he contended.

Gaffner indicated that he was not surprised about Price's vote against the amendment, citing statistics

Dutko unopposed for county board

Frank Dutko, 54, former Madison police chief and Second Ward alderman, has found the surest path to elective office as a member of the Madison County Board. He was unopposed in the Democratic primary in March 1982 and has no opposition in the upcoming general election.

Dutko represents District 24 on the 29-member board, the legislative body of this county's government.

When he first campaigned for the county position, he had to overcome ballot opposition. That was in 1960; the post again is the subject of ballot because of the once-each-decade redistricting.

As a result of this summer's "luck of the draw," Dutko once again is running for only a two-year term. Fifteen of the board districts have four-year terms starting in 1982; 14 received two-year terms, with their four-year terms beginning in 1984.

The unopposed candidate has a total of 32 years of experience in public service. He became a member of the Madison City Council after retiring from the police department.

Dutko for seven years was volunteer chairman of the Madison County cancer fund crusade. He is a charter committee member of Madison Police Explorer Post 10-4 and has participated in many Tri-Cities Area United Way campaigns. He is a past treasurer of Cub Scout Pack 47 of Madison.

He and the former Sara Kestler were married in 1954. Their children are Cynthia, Kelly Ann, Robin Lynn, Frank Scott Dutko and Becky Ann, ranging in age from 26 to 19.

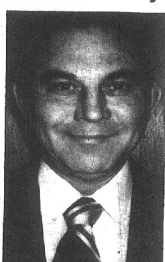

The board member attended Harris Grade School and graduated in 1950 from Madison High School. He attended Northeast Missouri State Teachers College at Kirksville, Belleville Area College and the University of Illinois Police Training Institute.

A Navy veteran, he has been active in the Navy of the Virgin Mary Eastern Orthodox Church, Madison Armvets Post 204 and Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307.

He has been a board member of the Coordinated Youth Services of the Quad-City area.

Dutko was a Madison patrolman for 13 years after joining the police department in February 1950. He was promoted to sergeant in 1963, lieutenant in 1964, captain in 1967 and chief of police in 1970. He was Madison's first K-9 Corps police dog handler.

Dutko retired as police chief in April 1977 after being elected as an alderman in a three-way race.

He has served on the Major Case Squad of St. Louis metropolitan area police departments and was a member of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois.

In April 1980, he resigned from the City Council to accept a temporary position as an investigator for the Madison County state's attorney. At that time, he had just captured the County Board primary nomination.

As the District 24 representative on the board, and on various county committees, Dutko has advocated "sound finances." He comments, "I don't believe the board should ever spend more than it takes in."

Although he has no campaign problems this year, service on the board sometimes involves headaches for the members, especially during recessionary times. The board currently is trying to find ways of resolving a projected $2 million imbalance in annual county revenue and costs.

Arrest woman at GC lounge

Called to a disturbance at Ken's Lounge, 1539 E. 20th St. early this week, officers took into custody two women who allegedly were throwing glasses, using profane language and refusing to leave when requested, a bartender at the tavern reported.

Charged with criminal trespass to property were Carolyn Riley, 38, of 2015 Washington Ave., and Debra Kuehn, 23, who had no address listed.

At police headquarters, Mrs. Riley reportedly fell in a cell and complained of being ill. An ambulance was summoned, but the woman then refused to go to the medical center, officers said.

Computer programming to be taught

A change in the computer science instructional program has been approved by the Granite City School Board.

Warren D. Collins, administrative assistant for instructional services, said, "Since the creation of the half-hour computer laboratory class, each high school has been offering and filling four 30-minute sections each semester."

"The computer lab course is an introductory program in which the student learns the basic language and functions of a microcomputer. To this point, student programming has been minimal because of the length of the course and its purpose.

"Surveys of the enrolled students have indicated that about half would like to continue into programming. Since more of our students coming out of the elementary and junior high schools will have a knowledge of microcomputers, programming will become more in demand."

"Additionally, the demand of the half-hour computer lab will decrease."

"To provide this service without any additional staff or cost, we will provide one full-hour computer science programming course in lieu of two half-hour computer lab classes for the second semester of this school year."

"In subsequent years, we propose that the computer lab classes be offered only during the first semester and that the computer science classes be offered only in the second semester," Collins related.

Computer Science Course 315, with credit of 5, will have three prerequisites:

1. Completion of one year of algebra, with a minimum grade of "C" each semester.
2. Computer lab, or demonstrated proficiency in the basic functions and language of microcomputers.

3. Permit from the department head.

It will be highly recommended that students entering the programming class having typing experience, Collins added.

SUGAR IN GAS
Terri Radtke, 2900 Circle Drive, reported during the weekend that vandals poured sugar in the gasoline tank of a 1969 station wagon, parked near the address.

About the same time, Donald Waelz, 1652 Third St., Madison, told police his 1969 Ford, which was parked on Circle Drive, also had sugar placed in the gas tank.

Takes loaded gun to tavern

Charles H. Freiner Jr., 26, of 2221 Alexander Ave. was arrested Thursday in the El Gato Tavern, 18th Street and Delmar Avenue, after initially displaying a .38-caliber revolver at the 18th Street Lounge.

When taken from the El Gato by police, he had in his waistband a revolver loaded with four bullets.

Officers charged him with unlawful use of a weapon and failure to obtain a firearm owner identification card.

At a hearing in Granite City Thursday afternoon, Freiner was sentenced to serve seven days in the Madison County jail.

Families Anonymous formed to help cope with stress

A newly-organized group of people who meet each week to discuss, and hopefully help each other through one type of stressful problem or another, has selected the name of Families Anonymous Group as its official name.

They meet at 7 p.m. each Tuesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church, 1802 Madison Ave., Edwardsville.

according to Paralea Russell, publicity chairman for the group. For additional information, those interested may call 1-656-1635 or 1-656-7965.

The organization began with the idea that when someone is in trouble with the authorities or with himself, his family is "in trouble" too. They need and deserve help. F.A.'s primary purpose is to assist the concerned family, the chairman explained.

Weekly discussion meetings for concerned relatives and friends bring about pamphlets with guidelines to follow and telephone numbers to call anytime and new friends who know just what a worried relative is experiencing, because they have been there themselves.

Concern with the use or abuse of drugs (including alcohol), related behavioral problems, such as runaway, hostility, delinquency, incoherence, truancy or low self-esteem, are the major reasons for those seeking help.

When a young person refuses to accept help, changed family attitudes can improve motivation and set the stage for recovery, according to the announcement.

During the meetings, members share their own experiences, both successes and failures, and are supportive of those going through a particular crisis. Each hour and a half meeting is built around a specific theme, such as expectations, anxiety, communications or overprotection.

A different member of the program leads each meeting and guest speakers are also invited from time to time.

The leaders of the group added, "It's never too late, but F.A. stresses early intervention for the concerned family and friends. There are no dues or fees for membership. Voluntary contributions are collected to pay for rent of the meeting room and literature. There is no formal sign-up and visitors are invited to simply attend a meeting."

Home repair series back on public TV

"This Old House," the popular and practical how-to series designed to take the mystery out of home renovation, returns to public television for a fourth season beginning Saturday at 6:30 p.m. The episode will air Thursdays at 12:30 p.m., beginning Oct. 21.

"This Old House" expands from 13 to 26 half-hour segments this season with host Bob Vila, a Boston designer-remodeler, again taking viewers step-by-step through the transformation of a single dwelling—from the dilapidated to the ideal.

This season, home base is an 1850's Greek Revival farmhouse in Arlington, Mass., which host Vila and crew will turn into an "idea house" for this decade.

"Making the house structurally sound and energy-efficient is first on the agenda," said Vila. To that end, one wing will be razed and rebuilt, the insulation upgraded and the leaky slate roof reshingled.

Once the house is made habitable, remodeling projects will focus on creating a 1980's-style living environment, including a media room lined with built-ins; an exercise spa with weight room, rowing station and sauna; a master bedroom suite with whirlpool bath, and a gourmet kitchen equipped with restaurant appliances. Also, an existing apartment in the house will be revamped and the old garage will become a garden shed-workshop.

In addition to doubling the number of episodes, the upcoming "This Old House" series will, for the first time, "hit the road." Vila and camera crews will visit homeowners around the country and take a look at how they're dealing with housing problems specific to their regions.

While many of this season's remodeling projects require professional assistance, do-it-yourself repairs and alterations will remain paramount.

Attends weekend for scholars

Jeffery T. McPherson of Granite City was one of 300 specially selected high school seniors from Missouri, Iowa and Illinois to attend the third annual President's Distinguished Scholar Weekend recently at Northeast Missouri State University, Kirksville, Mo.

"You have distinguished yourself through high school in your academic achievement and leadership qualities," NMSU President Charles J. McClain told McPherson by way of a formal invitation last month.

Besides participating in planned academic and social activities throughout the weekend, he was given the opportunity to compete for a full four-year scholarship through competitive examination.

Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McPherson. He plans to major in political science.

MAN FINED $500

James Lance, 22, 2154 Lee Ave., arrested this week at National Food Store and charged with misdemeanor theft, pleaded guilty in an appearance before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand at the Granite City Police Department at 11:30 a.m. Monday and was fined $500. He was released after being ordered to pay the total amount by July 1, 1983.

Pay by prisoners to help county's finances

Is it adding insult to injury to not only incarcerate an individual but also charge him or her for it? Opinions differ, but the procedure is being implemented by Madison County officials as a way of helping the county government avoid financial "red ink."

The program instituted by State's Attorney Donald W. Weber involves suing certain prisoners convicted of crimes to force them to reimburse the county for the expense of maintaining them in the county jail. Indigent jail inmates are unlikely to be named in the lawsuits.

Gary R. Phipps, 28, of Pontoon Beach is being assessed $3,600 to pay for 120 days being spent in custody on a charge of delivering marijuana.

Gregory A. Vaughn, 25, of Godfrey is being required to pay $2,700 for 90 days in jail on a robbery count.

Illinois legislators this summer enacted a law allowing such programs to be created. Weber says he plans to hire an attorney to do nothing but file suits against convicted prisoners.

The elected prosecutor and legal officer sees the approach as a way to help the ailing county budget. He believes it also can give assistant prosecutors more leverage in dealing with plea-bargained cases.

In addition to suing some of those convicted of offenses in the county, the plan calls for making the $30 daily charge a part of the plea bargaining process.

The figure for daily costs is based on the average expense of housing a prisoner in the modern, 1980-vintage jail in Edwardsville.
